THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXI. ATLANTA, GEORGIA, SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 13, 1889. PRICE FIVE CENTS

THE LOUISIANA MOB

A HAND TO BEG FOR FEDERAL OFFICES.

LONGSTREET TO GET A FOREIGN MISSION

Senator Thurman Sizes Up the Saintly Postmaster-General—The Canaday Scandal—Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—[Special.]—The Louisiana mob of republicans, who are, if possible, more pestiferous than the Alabama gang, received a fresh addition today. It was a mixed cargo. There was a sprinkling of the Caucasian in the hungry crowd, but the negro outnumbered him three to one. They no sooner got off the train than they deployed upon the white house and the departments. None of them could get to see the president, as this was cabinet day. They did, however, manage to get a hearing before the heads of the several departments after the cabinet meeting adjourned. They added nothing to harmony. Their predecessors, who have been here so long that most of them look as if a square meal would come mighty handy, have been fighting among themselves like cats and dogs. Those that came today will not be able, even if they try, to bring harmony out of discord.

They are almost certain to constitute another obstacle to the Louisiana republicans, doing what the president told them to do some time ago, and that is to agree among themselves and then come to him.

WORK FOR LONGSTREET.

It has been decided by President Harrison and Secretary Blaine that General Longstreet, of Georgia, shall receive a good office at the hands of this administration. It was left to General Longstreet to decide whether he would rather be placed on the payroll as a government official residing in this country, or go abroad. General Longstreet has decided in favor of a foreign appointment. It has not been definitely determined what place he will get, but it is very likely he will be sent as United States consul to Hong Kong. This is one of the best paying offices in the diplomatic service.

CANADAY TALKS BACK.

The charges of fraud, conspiracy and constructive forgery, which have been made by certain ex-senators, ex-members and others against Sergeant-at-Arms Canaday, of the United States Senate, creates a sensation here today. Canaday's friends say that when he makes his answer to the bill filed in court against him, the boot will be on the other foot, and that what he has to say will be as sensational as anything contained in the allegations against him.

THURMAN SIZES HIM UP.

Ex-Senator Thurman, of Ohio, who is in the city, has drawn in an interview in a local paper a word picture of Postmaster General Wanamaker which is making the whole town laugh here. It is: "That breeches maker from Philadelphia, Wanamaker, seems to be running the guillotine on full time. I am told that he is a pious cuss."

THE NEWS COASTWISE.

The Terrible Storm of Last Week—Bunting from Public Buildings.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Surgeon-General Hamilton, of Marine Hospital bureau, received a report today from the keeper of the quarantine station, at Cape Charles, Va., in which he says: The schooner Lucy Luce, of Norfolk, Captain Scott and schooner, H. Bosman, Captain W. Boaz, came ashore on the island on the seventh instant at 3 a. m. in the gale of last week. All hands were saved and are now on the island.

An unknown sloop capsized in sight of the island, but on account of the high sea, no assistance could be rendered. The temporary building used for a hospital was washed in the surf and is a complete wreck. The loss to the government property will not exceed $1,500 to $2,000. The keeper says it was the most severe gale he has ever seen in twenty years experience on the island. The new buildings for the marine hospital service will be erected on the island this summer.

BUNTING FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The commandant of the New York navy yard has received instructions from the navy department to furnish to the custodian of the custom house such bunting and flags as can be spared, for the purpose of decorating the public buildings of New York, under control of the treasury department. The sailors at the yard will be assigned to render any assistance that may be required in the work of decoration.

AN EXTENSION WANTED.

The secretary of the navy has referred to a board, consisting of Chief Constructor Wilson, Engineer-in-Chief Melville, and Captain Howison, the application of the Union Iron Works of San Francisco for an extension of time until their contract for the construction of Cruiser No. 5.

THE INTERNATIONAL MARINE CONFERENCE.

Rear-Admiral Franklin, president of the board of American delegates to the international marine conference, has submitted to the secretary of state the programme of subjects to be considered by the conference and it will be transmitted to the several powers that intend to participate. This letter of transmittal the president says is in conformity with the intentions expressed by our government in correspondence with the British government, the consideration of the international code of flag signals was excluded from the programme, and the consideration of "load line" was included. With this exception and this addition the entire subject matter of the act of congress of July 9, 1888, was arranged in general divisions, following as nearly as possible the precise language of the act. These general divisions were then carefully considered, and each was arranged under subdivisions and sub-heads. In conclusion, the admiral says: "It is believed that this arrangement in detail is sufficiently broad to include all matters bearing directly upon the principal topics, and care has been taken at the same time to avoid extending the field of deliberations of the conferences beyond the limits indicated in the act of congress and its interpretation by state department."

THE BOARD OF BUREAU CHIEFS.

Of the navy department, to which was referred for report the proposals received for the construction of an armored coast defense vessel, is in daily session and expects to complete its work tomorrow. A financial difficulty has arisen which threatens to render fruitless all the elaborate work of the design and competition which has occupied a bureau of the department for months past. It springs from the apparent requirement of the act of congress making the appropriation of $2,000,000 that it shall be the total cost of the structures." Some months ago bids were invited and proposals received for building a submarine torpedo boat, the cost of which could be met from the appropriation of $2,000,000 up to the present date no award of contract has yet been made. The lowest suitable bid to build this craft placed the cost at about $1,000,000. If the award should be made at this figure, there will not be sufficient money remaining, according to the lowest calculations of the board, to build an armored coast defense vessel. On the other hand if the submarine boat is abandoned, the contract awarded to the bidder for a larger vessel, the question would arise whether such action would not violate the apparent intention of congress to provide for but one naval structure. It has been suggested, as a means of escape from the dilemma, that by close figuring enough money might be saved over and above the cost of the coast defense vessel to build a small torpedo boat, and that the submarine boat might be abandoned. It is probable that the board will not attempt to solve this problem, but will simply report the facts to Secretary Tracy, who will refer it for solution to the judge advocate-general of the department.

THE PENSACOLA IN DOCK.

The commandant at the Norfolk navy yard has reported to the secretary of the navy that the Pensacola, which was sunk in the late storm, was again placed in dock yesterday. The ship was not strained, and the damage to her will not exceed fifty dollars.

TRIBUTE TO JUDGE JOHN A. CAMPBELL

Attorney-General Miller Pays Deserved Compliment to a Southern Lawyer.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—In the United States supreme court today after disposition of cases on the docket, Attorney-General Miller addressed the court as follows:

May it please the court: On the 13th of March last, John Archibald Campbell, a very distinguished lawyer and ex-justice of this court, departed this life. For fifty years, fully half of the lifetime of the government, this eminent man has been intimately and conspicuously associated with the interpretation of the laws of the land and the administration of justice. Nor is the length of Judge Campbell's professional career its only striking feature. The manner of his coming to the bar was unusual. In the first year of the first term of President Jackson, by special act of the legislature of Georgia, his native state, Campbell, with Robert Toombs and three or four others, were admitted to practice law and equity in that state. Removing to the city of Montgomery he at once took the same rank at the bar which he had maintained in their school and college, among the foremost; and at the age of 30 he had no superior at the bar of Alabama. At 42 he was appointed, and was worthy to be appointed, associate justice of this court.

Not one of the learned and eminent jurists who sat with him here on the bench, or in the consultation room, now remains to bear witness to his virtues or his talents; but the opinions he wrote found in Howard's reports, volumes 15 to 21 exclusive, testify, and will testify so long as American jurisprudence shall endure, to his industry, his great abilities and profound learning. A disciple, an admirer, and a friend of Calhoun, in 1861, Judge Campbell followed, though it is believed, reluctantly followed the teachings of the apostle of state sovereignty to their logical results. Since then he has honorably maintained his place at the bar, and as a scholar and jurist among the most eminent men of the land.

Having no personal acquaintance with Judge Campbell, it is not fitting that I should speak of his private life and personal character. Fully appreciating his good and great qualities, both of head and heart, the members of this bar, on the 6th instant, adopted resolutions expressive of our sentiments on the melancholy occasion of his death.

The attorney general then read the resolutions, and proceeded:

May it please the court, I move that these resolutions be incorporated in your record as a permanent evidence of the high estimation in which Judge Campbell was held by his brethren of the bar.

The chief justice replied in fitting terms.

SETTLING IN OKLAHOMA.

Instructions as to How to Secure a Location in the Territory.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The commissioner of the general land office has made public the following letter as being of general interest to persons contemplating settling in Oklahoma:

Department of the Interior, General Land Office, Washington, D. C., April 12, 1889—To O. M. Wilson, Arkansas City, Kansas—Sir: Your letter of the 4th instant, addressed to the attorney general, in reference to Oklahoma lands, which are to be opened to settlement under act of congress of March 2, 1889, has been forwarded by him to this office for answer. In reply, I have to state that the lands in question are to be disposed of to actual settlers under the homestead law only. A party desiring to become an actual settler under the homestead may initate his claim by entry at the district land office, after properly examining and selecting the land desired, in which case he is allowed six months from date of entry within which to establish his residence on the land, or, if he so elects, he may initeate his claim by actual settlement on the land, which must consist of some act or acts connecting himself with the particular tract claimed, said act or acts to be equivalent to an announcement of such, his intention, and from which the public generally may have notice of his claim. Thereafter he is given three months within which to make his claim of record by making entry in the district land office. I enclose for your further information copies of the circulars of January 1, 1880, and April 1, 1889. Respectfully,

WILLIAM A. J. SPARKS, Commissioner.

CANNOT KEEP OUT THE BOOMERS.

CHICAGO, April 12.—A dispatch from Wichita, Kas., says: Major Barker arrived here last night from Oklahoma and reports that the soldiers are not equal to the task of keeping the boomers out. They slip into the country and conceal themselves so effectually in the woods that the scouts cannot find them. Every station on the Santa Fe road is guarded, and only those having permits are allowed to get off the trains. The Santa Fe has nearly completed the depot at Guthrie, and workmen are engaged on the land office building at Purcell. The border is black with boomers awaiting the opening of the country. Many of them are in very destitute circumstances. The Santa Fe railroad people say arrangements have been made to transport all who apply, and the Rock Island is preparing to run a line of stages from its southern terminus into the territory. Two immense rafts are being constructed here for the transportation of Hill's colony. They expect to float down the Arkansas, as the recent rains have swollen the river, and they can land within seven miles of the Oklahoma border. Others have arranged for which are expected to transport them to claims already chosen. Every south bound train leaving here is crowded, and wagon caravans are passing in an endless chain.

APPOINTED BY HARRISON.

Some of the Men Who Have to Go That Others May Come In.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The president has appointed Lyman E. Knapp, of Middleburg, Vermont, to be governor of Alaska.

J. B. Burke, chief of the issue and Gazette division of the patent office, has been removed and J. W. Babson, chief of that division, has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Burke is an ex-commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., department of the Potomac. His resignation had been called for by Commissioner Tanner, but Burke refused to resign. Babson formerly occupied his present position, but was removed during the democratic administration.

The president today appointed Henry S. White, of West Virginia, to be United States marshal for the district of West Virginia. White lives at Belton, Marshall county, where he has been engaged for many years in farming and mercantile pursuits. He has represented his county in the state legislature several times, and is said to be a man of ability.

THE ARMES CASE.

Courtmartial for the Man Who Tweaked Beaver's Nose.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—[Special.]—In the Armes courtmartial, Judge Hubbell, of this city, appeared as counsel for the accused, Captain Knox having withdrawn. The vacancy existing in the board, occasioned by the relief of Captain Knox, (who was relieved from duty upon being selected by Captain Armes as his counsel,) was filled by the appointment of Major Schwan, of the adjutant-general's department. Judge Hubbell entered into an argument to convince the court that the case presented was one which belonged to the civil and not to the military jurisdiction, but the court decided that it was a proper case to be decided by court-martial, and Captain Armes, through his counsel, thereupon entered general plea of not guilty.

The President Takes a Rest.

WASHINGTON, April 12—The president intends to enjoy a little rest and the fresh air of the Potomac on a revenue cutter tomorrow, leaving Washington in the morning and returning in the evening. He will probably be accompanied by Mrs. Harrison and several members of the cabinet.

A TERRIBLE STORY

RELATED BY AN INCOMING SEA CAPTAIN.

THE SINKING OF THE DENMARK

With Over Six Hundred Passengers Aboard —The Ship's Agents Think That the Passengers Have Been Saved.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The following dispatch from London was received at the maritime exchange this morning:

Steamer Denmark, from Christiansand, was seen April 8th abandoned in mid-ocean. The Denmark belongs to the Thingvalla line of steamers, plying between this port and Copenhagen. The Denmark was formally the Jan Brydel, of the White Cross line. She is said to have had 650 passengers on board, mostly Scandinavians. Agents of the company here say that they place no reliance in the dispatch, but have cabled agents in London and Copenhagen for further information.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN NEW YORK.

The greatest excitement prevails in shipping circles over the loss of the Denmark. The Thingvalla line is probably the largest carrying immigrant line that plies between this port and Europe. The Denmark had on board when she left Christiansand for New York on March 26th, 650 passengers, presumably all immigrants, Captain R. M. Knudsen and a crew numbering 40 men.

The office of the agents of the steamer, Funch, Edge & Co., 27 South Williams street, has been thronged with people all the morning anxiously inquiring for later news of the vessel. Mr. Edge, of the firm, does not credit the report.

THE NEWS CONFIRMED.

QUEENSTOWN, April 12.—The Inman line steamer City of Chester, from New York, April 2, for Liverpool, arrived here today. She reports that on April 8th, in latitude 46 N., longitude 37 W., she passed the Danish steamer Denmark, from Christiania, Copenhagen, etc., for New York. The Denmark had been abandoned by her crew. Her stern was level with the sea and her bow stood high out of the water. She was apparently sinking. The Denmark was a vessel of 2,260 tons and belonged to the Thingvalla line. She was commanded by Captain Knudsen.

DESCRIPTION OF THE DENMARK.

The Denmark was formerly the Belgian steamer Jan Brydel. She was a bark-rigged vessel and was 340 feet long, 40 feet in breadth and 26 feet deep. She was built at Newcastle, England, in 1880, and was rated 100 A1, the highest class. She was of iron, brigantine rigged, and had three decks and nine water tight bulkheads. Her carrying capacity was 4,400 tons on a 2,587 tons register. Her measurements were 340 feet long, 40 feet beam and 26 feet depth of hold. Her engines were 400 horse power. The reported disaster vividly recalls the collision of the steamship Thingvalla, of the same line, last summer, by which many lives were lost.

The general agents of the Thingvalla line express their belief that the passengers of the ill-fated ship have been picked up by some passing vessel.

A TOWN WIPED UP.

Lumberton, Ala., Totally Destroyed By the Flames.

MOBILE, April 12.—Lumberton, Ala., fifty-five miles north of Mobile, on the Mobile and Ohio road, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. A strong wind prevailing communicated the fire from a slab pit to a lumber mill owned by Turner & Oates, of Mobile, from which it spread to a store owned by the same firm. The mill and store and stock, stationhouse, telegraph office, seven flat cars and 100 yards of the main railroad track were destroyed. The telegraph lines were burned, shutting off communication, and trains were delayed several hours. Lumber valued at $7,000 was also burned; no insurance. The mill was valued at $15,000, the store and stock $5,000; total insurance, $7,000; total loss estimated $30,000. The greater part of the loss will fall on Turner & Oates.

"THE PATENT APPLIED FOR"

Is Declared by a Federal Court to be No Protection at All.

DETROIT, Mich., April 12.—An important decision was rendered in the United States district court yesterday by Judge Brown. Asa W. Straight, the inventor of a burner for a gasoline stove, upon which he had applied for a patent brought a suit for an injunction against Clayton & Lambert, who have improved Straight's burner, claiming that the device "Patent applied for" on his burner protected him. Judge Brown held that the device is no protection, and the court cannot grant an injunction, as it cannot assume that the patent will be granted by the commissioner. He further says that patentees have no rights at common law, and the statute makes the life of a patent 17 years. To grant such an injunction would be to give a patent more than its statutory life, for if granted at all, it might not be for months after the application was filed. The bill was therefore dismissed for want of jurisdiction.

ROBBING THE POSTOFFICE.

A Pitched Battle Between the Thieves and the Police.

CENTRALIA, Ill., April 12.—Robbers entered the postoffice here at 4 o'clock this morning. They were discovered by two night policemen, and a pitched battle ensued, many shots being exchanged. One of the robbers fell wounded, and the other two ran away. The police pursued them a short distance, and when they came back found that the wounded man had escaped, leaving his revolver and shoes.

The robbers were disturbed before they got to work on the safe, and only secured what money was in the stamp drawer, a little over $1. A large negro was found dead at the central bridge at 5 o'clock terribly mangled. He had quite a number of coppers in his pocket, and no shoes on, and is supposed to be the wounded robber, who was killed while making his escape.

WHITE CAPS IN NASHVILLE.

A Prominent Young Man Receives a Notice.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 12.—[Special.]—Nashville has a white cap organization. A number of men, well disguised and armed with clubs and rawhide whips, have been keeping a lookout on disreputable resorts in the suburbs north of the city for several nights. No one has been assaulted by them so far, but an inkling of their intentions may be gathered from the following letter, which was received by a prominent young man in Nashville. The letter is headed with a skull and crossbones, and reads as follows:

NORTH NASHVILLE, April 10, 1889.—Dear Mr. ——: I, president of the sacred band known as the White Caps, am authorized to warn you that if you still continue to visit the places that you were formerly in the habit of visiting, it will go hard with you. This is also intended for your friend, Mr. ——. Remember, we will give you three days, and shall visit your haunts every night, and if you are caught, we will not be responsible for anything we do. Please comply with our requests, and avoid this terrible calamity. Respectfully, WHITE CAPS."

On the bottom is the picture of a coffin, on which is printed: "If this coffin is not large enough, we will enlarge it for both of you."

RAIDING THE MOONSHINERS.

The Moonshiners Surprised and Run Away.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Yesterday two well-armed revenue officers made a dash into Harnett county, after moonshiners who have become very daring. They had received information of an illicit distillery near the northern border of that county. They found the place and got fleeting glimpse of the proprietors of the still, who fled in such haste that they left their shot-guns heavily loaded, also their coats in which were watches and money. The still was destroyed. It was a large one, and had been in operation a long time. Just as they were leaving the still a lad came to say that there was another still in that neighborhood, but that its proprietors had instructed him to say that they were well-armed with repeating rifles and gave notice that they would shoot at sight any revenue officer who attempted their capture.

THE STOLEN SAW MILL.

It Makes Good Its Escape into Canadian Waters.

DETROIT, Mich., April 12.—A special to the Journal from St. Ignace, says: The Moiles brothers mill plant is safe in Canada. After the tug Mary left Detour for this port Wednesday, the whole force connected with the Canada expedition was put to work sawing ice to relieve the fleeing craft and their plunder, knowing the Mary would report their condition, and an attempt would be made to capture them in American waters. The pursuing tug Sangatuck, with officers and men, which went from here yesterday, returned at 3 o'clock this morning. By the time the pursuers had overtaken the fugitives last night the latter had made their way through the ice into Canadian waters, and there defied their pursuers. Seeing the hopelessness of the situation the Saugatuck turned back. Two mill and machinery laden barges and tugs are now behind an island in a safe position, and will remain there until the ice goes out so they can proceed to their destination.

Sheriff Smith Arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 12.—[Special.]—Sheriff Smith was today arrested on two grand jury indictments, one charging him with carrying concealed weapons and the other with assault with a weapon. Last week Smith had a difficulty with a merchant named Marshall. The difficulty grew out of some old campaign matters. Marshall said some hard things. The sheriff took two deputies, and going to Marshall's store, attacked him and drew his pistol. The indictments were the result of this affair.

THE NEW YORK CAPTALISTS.

Who Are Interested in the Development of the South.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 12.—[Special.]—A party of rich New Yorkers, all of whom are stockholders and officers of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, left at 7:30 o'clock this morning on special train for Cowan, Tracy City, Sout Pittsburg, Chattanooga and other points. In the party are Mr. R. R. Young, of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, Mr. Chester Griswold, late president of the Troy Steel and Iron company, Mr. H. Duncan Wood, a member of the executive committee of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, Mr. J. H. Harriman, member of the firm of H. G. Campbell & Co., prominent New York brokers, Mr. C. M. Robinson, of the stock brokers firm of C. M. Robinson, Mr. S. L. Lehmann, of Naylor & Co., iron merchants. They will return Sunday morning and then go to inspect the company's property in Alabama. Messrs. William Duncan, Sam Cowan Gordon and Secretary Bowron, of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company went with the party.

THE GATE CITY GUARD THIRD.

The Southern Cadets, of Macon, Win the Big Prize.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 12.—The Gate City Guard, of Atlanta, the last company to arrive, reached the scene of the interstate military contest early this morning. The interstate drill was witnessed with enthusiasm. The judges retired to the St. James hotel and were occupied until 11 p. m. in making their decision, which was rendered as follows from the band stand of the sub-tropical, during an intermission in the ball at 11:30: The Southern Cadets, of Macon, Ga., 79.1 per cent; German Fusileers, Charleston, 78.9; the Gate City Guard, Atlanta, 76.8; Carolina Rifles, Charleston, 74.2; Orlando Guards, Orlando, Fla., 72.1; Metropolitan Light Infantry, Jacksonville, 54.5; Jacksonville Light Infantry, 49.7.

IN HAYTIAN WATERS.

News From the American Vessels Now Stationed There.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Advices from Hayti by the steamer Delta, which arrived here this morning, state that heavy fighting took place on March 28 between St. Marie and Gonaives, and that on the same day great damage was done by an earthquake at Port de Paix. Many houses were wrecked and several persons injured. No lives were lost, however. The Delta, which sailed from Port de Paix on the third instant, reports that the United States steamship Ossipee, Commander Kellogg, arrived at that port March 30. All well. The Ossipee was from Gonaives, and proceeded March 31 for Cape Hayti. The United States steamship Galena was at Port de Paix March 31. All well.

The Fight Against the Poles and Wires.

NEW YORK, April 12.—Judge Wallace in the United States circuit this morning handed down the decision in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company against the mayor and board of electrical control, restraining the latter from interfering with the poles and wires of the Western Union company. In his decision Judge Wallace says: "An order will be entered denying the injunction and vacating the stay heretofore granted as respects the removal of complainants poles and wires, from the streets, and granting an injunction against any interference by defendants with complainants use of the structures of the Manhattan Railroad company for operation."

The Arkansas Election.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 12.—Official returns from sixty-three of the seventy-five counties in the state give the following result of the election held April 2d for three associate judges of the supreme court:

P. Sanders democrat, 46,422; S. P. Hughes W. E. Hemmingway democrat, 46,375 democrat, 45,759; T. Gregg republican, 36,038; C. E. Mitchell republican, 36,847; W. F. Hill Independent, 35,465. Thirteen of the other fifteen counties will give democratic majorities. Less than half of the vote was polled.

A Bond Decision.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—In the case of Hope & Co., of Amsterdam, vs. the state board of liquidation to compel the funding of $4,000,000 of the Old Citizens' bank bonds into state consols, Judge Ellis handed down his decision today, maintaining the exception of the state and dismissing the plaintiff's demand. The exception was that no formal application had been made to the funding board; therefore, the board could not legally be forced to accept them until all formalities had been accomplished.

Chicago Defeats All America.

PHILADELPHIA, April 12.—Chicago defeated All America, this afternoon, by better fielding. The weather was threatening, which probably accounts for meager attendance, not more than 2,500 people being present. Anson, Daly, Fogarty and Wood were greeted with generous applause when they came to the bat. There was no great interest manifested by the spectators in the game, which was well and sharply played. The following is the score:

All America	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	0	0	—4
Chicago	0	0	0	2	3	0	0	1	0	—6

STREET CARS STOPPED

STRIKE OF THE CONDUCTORS AND DRIVERS.

EXCITING SCENES IN MINNEAPOLIS.

The Strikers Obstruct the Tracks—The Police Charge Upon Them—The Strike Extends to St. Paul.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 12.—There has been no change in the status of the street railway and motor employes strike since last night. No effort has as yet been made to run cars on any of the lines. The strikers offered to submit to arbitration, but President Lowry refuses to entertain the proposal.

A few minutes before 4 o'clock this afternoon there was a serious disturbance on Washington avenue, near First avenue south. A Fourth avenue car had, with great difficulty, made its way to the turntable and was on its way back. It was surrounded by a huge and excited crowd, who hurled abuse of all sorts at its occupants. Finally some one set the brake on the rear platform and stopped it.

At this juncture a squad of mounted policemen dashed out of an alley way from the central police station and rushed at full speed into the crowd with clubs drawn. Once in the center of the crowd, they arrested three men and retreated. The crowd was constantly augmenting, and

WAS GETTING VERY VIOLENT.

To make matters worse, a number of express wagons, filled with strikers, drove in front of the cars and succeeded in so filling up the street as to make a complete blockade. The driver of the car finally unhooked his horses and went off amid the cheers of the crowd, leaving the car standing on the track.

At 4:29 o'clock another car made its appearance on Washington avenue from the barn. Mounted police made a way for it through the crowd and it finally reached the turntable. On its way back the car was blockaded by two wood carts which were dropped on the corner of Washington and Hennepin. The crowd hooted and yelled and then the car stuck. Finally the driver became disgusted, and unhitching his horses, drove off.

By this time there were two stalled cars on the avenue and a huge crowd. There had been a great deal of rotten egg and stone throwing and excitement ran at fever heat. Three mounted policemen lost their heads and throwing down several people and injuring a number. Several arrests were made at this time and one man was unmercifully clubbed by six or seven policemen. The noise frightened the car horses still more and the drivers and officers found it expedient to take them away from the car, the crowd readily yielding to such a move. After lingering awhile and finding it impossible to hitch up again, the horses were removed again to the stables and the attempt to move cars abandoned for the time.

After this the crowd became less demonstrative and gradually thinned out, leaving the two cars on the track. Thus ended the day in which Lowrey prophesied that he would have all cars running on every line before night. There was a good deal of good-natured fun at the expense of the police this afternoon, and not a little indignation at some of the unnecessary clubbing. The arrest of Frank Hoover, a well known member of the typographical union, was something in the way of a joke on the police, as he had nothing to do with the affair, but was simply a spectator.

THE STRIKE IN ST. PAUL.

ST. PAUL, April 12.—The street car strike extended from Minneapolis to this city this afternoon when all the men, except those on cable lines, went out. The cause of the strike is the same as that at Minneapolis—the men object to a reduction of 25 per cent in wages, which has been ordered. Everything is quiet.

A GREAT SPEECH.

Sir Charles Russell Finishes His Argument in the Parnell Case.

LONDON, April 12.—Upon the opening of the session of the Parnell commission this morning, Sir Charles Russell resumed and concluded his speech in defense of the parnellites. He undertook to show that the money Mr. Parnell gave Byrne, which the prosecutor alleged was given for the purpose of enabling Byrne to escape, was meant by Mr. Parnell to be used for the ordinary purposes of the national league, and that Mr. Parnell did not know that Byrne was in peril of arrest.

The court, Sir Charles said, in concluding his speech, was trying the history of the Irish revolution. He asked that fair and generous consideration be given it. If prosperity was returning to Ireland thanks be to God. But affairs were unhealthy in that country where the people considered the imprisoned members of house of commons heroes and martyrs. Sir Charles declared that he did not speak merely as an advocate of the accused members of the house of commons but for the land of his birth and he believed in the best interests of England. The inquiry which was intended to be a curse, had been a blessing. It had been designed for the purpose of ruining one man, but had proved the means of his vindication.

There was a sensation in the courtroom when Sir Charles concluded his speech. It is the general opinion of his hearers that he never spoke better. When Sir Charles had finished, Presiding Justice Hannen passed a note to him in which he said: "I congratulate you. Your speech was a great one and worthy of the occasion."

The archbishops of Dublin and Cashel will be among the witnesses who will testify for the defense.

Upon conclusion of today's proceedings, court adjourned until April 30.

In his peroration, which lasted half an hour, Sir Charles Russell said:

"In opening our case I said that we represented the accused. The positions are now reversed. The accused sit there, (pointing with indignant scorn at Walter and McDonald, of the Times.) This inquiry will not only vindicate individuals, but will remove all misconception of the character, action and motives of the Irish people and their leaders. It will set earnest, honest minds to thinking, and will hasten true union, and effect true reconciliation. It will dispel the mighty cloud that has darkened the history of a noble race, and dimmed the glory of a mighty empire."

At the conclusion of the speech, Mrs. Gladstone and other friends warmly congratulated Russell and Parnell and Davitt.

THE TRIAL OF BOULANGER.

When the reading was concluded, the senate went into secret session, and the public withdrew.

THE TRIAL OF BOULANGER

and his associates was then formally begun. The senators had been requested to appear in evening dress for the occasion. This request was ignored by the members of the right, all of whom wore frock coats. The members of the left were attired in evening dress, and wore white cravats.

THE WEEK IN BUSINESS.

Signs of Improvement—Advance in Prices o Some Articles.

NEW YORK, April 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade for the week says: In spite of the continued dullness in many quarters and some distucting failures there are distinct signs of improvement in business. Reports from interior points, almost without exception, indicate an enlargement of trade, though it is but slow of some, and where the iron trade is important, the increase in volume is neutralized by unsatisfactory prices. The rapid advances in sugar, coffee, cotton, butter and oats are nearly balanced by the decline in wheat and corn, pork products, print cloths, leather and other articles, so that the general average of the prices is but a shade higher than a week ago. But further disbursements by the treasury have increased the already abundant supply of money.

The market for securities has improved, and exports continue to increase.

THE IRON MARKET.

The most significant feature of the week's commercial news is the report of furnaces in blast April 1st, which shows the weekly output of anthracite and bituminous iron only 657 tons less than March 1st, and nearly 37,000 tons, or 26 per cent larger than a year ago. The restriction in some localities appears to be nearly balanced by the increase in the output elsewhere, and a significant fact is that, with production close to the largest ever known, prices scarcely yield at all, and no depression in accumulation of stock is visible.

These facts, in connection with the narrow demand for rails, indicate that the consumption of iron in other forms must be increasing. Accordingly the market for structural iron is distinctly better. More orders are reported in plate and tank iron, though some mills are not yet at work. The demand for sheet iron is fair, and rails are firm at $27 to $27.50, though sales are but 10,0.0.

Reduced production makes nails firmer, and bar iron is still irregular and low, but for most other kinds of products the demand is better. Pig iron is rather weaker on the contrary, and some southern offered below $17 for No. 1, while mill iron ranges on $14.75 to $15.50.

THE ADVANCE IN RAW SUGAR.

The sharp advance of 32 cents per 100 pounds in raw sugar, with the purchase of San Francisco refinery for the trust, accompanying the sudden rise o six cents in trust stock. The statistical position of raw sugar is considered strong and the demand is full.

The boot and shoe trade is said to be large beyond precedent, but the demand pushes the makers toward low prices rather than good quality. Leather is a shade lower, and hides are believed over abundant.

The market for cotton goods is moderate, and print cloths are an eighth lower but exports continue to exceed last year's more than receipts and raw cotton has risen a quarter. The official return shows exports of 294,000,000 pounds in March against 156,000,000 last year, the increase in value being over $10,000,000.

In oil the increase in quantity exported was small and lower prices caused a decrease of $200,000 in value for March, and the market has been dull and weak.

THE WOOLEN MARKET.

Woolen manufacturers and dealers are excited by the news that the recently appointed appraiser at Philadelphia has advanced the duty on worsteds to correspond with that on woolens and some believe that a similar ruling will soon be made here and at other ports. The importation of worsteds in great quantities, at low rates of duty, has changed operations in many woolen mills and manufacturers are gratified by the new ruling while importers will resist it in the courts. The market for raw wool is stronger in tone and an advance in price is expected.

Copper and tin are still somewhat weaker, and excessive supplies still depress the coal market, which is worse than dull. The volume of business is unsatisfactory, and sales below schedule rates are reported.

Business failures occurring throughout the country during last week number for the United States 212, Canada, 27; total, 239, against 222 last week.

Waiting for the Strike to End.

NEWARK, N. J., April 12.—When the employes in spinning mill No. 2 of the Clark Thread company, at Kearney, received their pay this afternoon they were notified that, in consequence of the strike of spinners, there would be no more work in the mill for the present. The order affects about 150 hands, including the strikers. The company assert that work cannot be resumed until those opposed to them return to work. There was no excitement when the announcement was made, as it was expected.

The Protest of Tennessee Veterans.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 12.—[Special.]—The Frank Cheatham Bivouac of confederate soldiers tonight adopted the following resolution, which was offered by United States Marshal Wilson:

Resolved, By the Frank Cheatham bivouac that its members have seen, with great regret and mortification, that certain organizations, purporting to represent confederate soldiers in the south, have sent committees to the north to beg aid for the support of indigent confederate soldiers. While we properly appreciate any proper expressions of sympathy from the northern people for our needy confederate soldiers, we emphasize the declaration that they repudiate any effort, directly or indirectly, to beg aid for them in the north.

TWO FILLED TEETH

LEAD TO THE DISCOVERY OF A BLOODY MURDER.

Green Griffith Kills a Stranger and Buries Him in the Woods—A Singular Story Brought Out.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Green Griffith was tried Tuesday, charged with the crime of murdering a colored man named Evans. It seems that Emma Jenkins swore that about cotton chopping time, in the afternoon about dusk, she was sitting in Green Griffith's house, about one and one-half miles from the public road in the southeastern part of Pike county, in company with Green's wife, in 1887,

A STRANGE NEGRO

walked up, whom Emma claimed to have known about four years previous in Griffin. He had never been seen in that part of the country before. They invited him to have a seat, and he sat down by the fire and remained about five minutes when Green walked in with an arm full of trash, which he threw on the fire. The stranger spoke to Green, but received no reply. Green then went out and returned with more trash for the fire, and with an ax in ont hand. He threw the trash down, and for the first time spoke to the stranger, saying:

"What in the devil are you doing here?"

Before giving him time to reply, he

STRUCK HIM TWICE IN THE HEAD

with the ax, cutting his head in four pieces. He then told his wife and Emma, that if they ever breathed of the occurrence to anyone, he would treat them the same way. He then took the dead negro across his shoulders and carried him toward the woods, being accompanied by his wife and Emma. When they got to the edge of the woods the woman stopped; Green proceeded to the woods. He was gone about ten minutes when he came back, and the three returned to the house together. He then pulled off his shirt and commanded Emma to burn it up, which she did, and his wife to get rags and made the two women scrub up the blood from the floor. Seven months afterwards a suit of old clothes was found in the woods, and a dog was discovered gnawing a bone, which somewhat resembled the face bone of a man. In one end of the bone were two teeth which

RESEMBLED HUMAN TEETH.

The foregoing was the testimony of Emma Jenkins. Green was arrested in Barnesville early in 1888, by Sheriff Howard, and was tried in the superior court of Pike. The remarkable feature in the case is that the prosecution could find no person who had ever seen or heard of Evans, and no person would swear on the trial, except Emma Jenkins. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on the 5th day of June. A motion was made for a new trial, which was granted. The new trial is set for May next.

The hanging will take place in June. It has been nigh on to fifty years since Pike county has had a criminal hung.

THE BAGWELL CASE.

A hearing was then given to the evidence in the Bagwell murder case. Bagwell, a white man, killed Bill Wamble, a negro, last June. Colonel Arthur Pope made his maiden effort in favor of the defendant. The speech was a fine one, and young Pope was highly complimented by Colonel Womack, Judge Stewart and others. Colonel Hunt, of Barnesville, made the first speech for the state, and was followed by Judge Stewart for the defense. Judge J. S. Pope then began a plea for the prisoner, but before he had proceeded far in his argument, was attacked by a spell of vertigo and forced to retire from the courtroom. Judge Stewart made a strong effort in behalf of the defendant. The closing argument was then made by Solicitor Womack for the state. He held the large audience, among which were quite a number of ladies, spellbound by one of his characteristic speeches, after which the judge delivered his charge to the jury. The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

THE HARRIS COUNTY GRIST.

The state against P. T. Grear for carrying concealed weapons was found not guilty. There are more prisoners in jail now than were ever in there at one time before. There are thirteen, all colored. The grand jury is looking after the venders of whisky by the gallon with a sharp sword.

IT WAS THE WRONG MAN'S TRUNK.

An Augusta Hotel Man Gets Into Trouble by a Seizure.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Proprietor Camp, of the Planters' hotel, finds himself unexpectedly embroiled in litigation today. Last night several trunks were carried from the hotel to the depot, which Camp was informed were the property of R. H. Haines, who was indebted to the hotel. Camp had an attachment levied on the trunks, and had them stopped. The trunks proved to be the property of Luke Gallaher, who was forced by the constable to pay Haines's bill, due the hotel, before he would surrender the trunks. Gallaher sues Camp for $250 damages, and Camp denies that he has damaged him. Gallaher then garnishees every boarder in the hotel. Proprietor Camp states that he does not owe a dollar to anybody, and is ready to pay any just claim against him. The matter has caused a good deal of talk tonight about the hotel lobbies.

THE COMMISSIONERS IN MACON

Viewing the Land Which Has Been Offered for the Experimental Farm.

MACON, April 12.—[Special.]—Macon has the experimental farm commission with her today, and the citizens' committee are doing their full duty in showing the visitors attentions and courtesies. Whether Macon gets the farm or not, the commission will have enjoyed the pleasure of seeing the most beautiful city in the state.

The commissioners expected to reach Macon last night at eleven o'clock from Forsyth, but owing to a break in the engine, the party did not reach here until nearly three (3) o'clock this morning. Yet despite the late hour, some of the citizens committee were at the depot to greet the commission and escort them to Hotel Lanier where handsome apartments had been prepared for them.

The following registered: J. T. Henderson, Atlanta; P. J. Berckmans, Augusta; Wright Brady, Americus; J. M. Rushin, Boston; G. M. Ryals, Savannah; Felix Corput, Cave Spring; J. M. Twitty, Jefferson; W. T. Peek, Conyers; J. B. Park, Greensboro; H. C. White, Athens.

On one of the early morning trains Mr. E. Taylor, of Pope's ferry, a commissioner, arrived and registered at the Hotel Lanier; also Dr. W. E. Boggs, of Memphis, the chancellor of the state university.

After breakfast, the following members of the citizens committee, met the commission at the Hotel Lanier, and at 9:15 set out in carriages to inspect the different offers of land for a location. Congressman James H. Blount, Secretary R. A. Nisbet, Hon. A. O. Bacon, W. R. Phillips, chairman of the board of county commissioners, Mayor S. B. Price, Captain R. E. Park and Hon. C. L. Bartlett. The committee first visited the 105 acres tendered by Hon. A. O. Bacon, in East Macon; then went and inspected the park land, and next drove to the East Tennessee depot, where a special train was in waiting to convey the party to Holton, on the line of the East Tennessee, about six or seven miles from Macon. At the Macon depot the party was reinforced by committeeman I. B. English, and Mr. A. T. Hott and proprietor J. D. Crawford, of the Hotel Lanier, who had prepared an elegant repast of delightful viands and wines. The train left for Holton at 11 o'clock, inspected the lands there, some of which lay immediately against the railroad, and then ate lunch and returned to Macon at 1:45 p. m. Carriages were in waiting at the East Tennessee depot, and the party were given a drive through some of the principal street to the Central depot, where a special train waited to carry them to Summerfield, a few miles from Macon, between Macon and Atlanta, to inspect the S. T. Coleman offer of 130 acres. On returning from Summerfield another special train was in waiting at the depot to take the commission down the Georgia Southern road to Wellston, to inspect the 200 acres offered there by the management of the Georgia Southern road.

Experimental farm commission returning from Wellston stopped at Holmes' plantation six miles from Macon, Bibb county, which the Georgia Southern road also offers for the proposed farm, and inspected it. Commission left tonight at 6:40 for Atlanta, and will visit Penfield and Athens tomorrow. Nothing definite could be learned as to the commission's opinion. An idea prevails here that of the sites inspected in Bibb by the commission they are more favorable to the offer at Holton than any other, which includes 526 acres, and more can be obtained if necessary with improvements and Bibb's $10,000 cash offer.

A SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT

To be Given Under the Auspices of Ladies of St. Paul's.

MACON, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—All the hill seems busy in preparation for the authors' carnival to be held on April 30th and May 1st. If the personnel, and rumor, and preparation, and artists can give character in prospective, it is certain this entertainment will be one of the most charming things of the kind ever presented in Macon or the south. Presenting as we understand it will, those elegant and social features of the kermiss and other like festivals, it will be as well a great social event and pleasure as a benefit to St. Paul's. Indeed, these beautiful social entertainments are of value as a means of social intercourse, the intermingling of ideas and interests, and the identifying of individuals in work of an excellent character and for estimable purposes, cannot but be of general benefit. This festival will be of high tone really, not only beautiful and pleasant, but elevating and instructive.

Only through very considerable work and experience could it be at all given, and the ladies deserve no little credit for their courage in attempting so expensive a fete and festival. They should, and no doubt will, meet with success.

Bishop Beckwith.

MACON, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Bishop Beckwith, of the Episcopal diocese of Georgia, is expected to preach at St. Paul's and St. Barnabas on next Sunday and administer the rite of confirmation. Edwards to recite "The Old Canteen" on Decoration Day, April 26th, at Rose Hill cemetary, and he has consented. The large crowd that will be in attendance can rest assured of hearing a splendid recitation from the gifted Edwards.

The new mule and wagon for which Alderman Wing, chairman of the cemetery committee, applied, was obtained today, and Mr. Jim Keating drove the team to the cemetery, with apparently great satisfaction.

There were quite a number of couples, young ladies and gentlemen, out driving this afternoon in phaetons. The carriage now seems to have the preference over the buggy. It is more stylish, you know.

The work of filling up the cut in the rear of the Gate Roberts place is rapidly nearing completion and when entirely finished will no doubt be quite beautiful.

The doll drill by the children, under the auspices of the ladies of St. Paul's church, immediately following Lent, will be a delightful performance.

Driver Strong, of the Macon street railroad, is said to be one of the most careful of his stock in the employ of his company. He is very watchful and careful in the other details of his business.

Ladies are doing considerable horseback riding in Macon this spring. It is splendid exercise and recreation.

Several new monuments have been recently erected in Rose Hill cemetery.

Who will be the first Maconite to give a subscription to the confederate home? Let some one open the ball handsomely. Macon certainly should not be recreant to her duty.

Mr. John C. Van Syckel, of the well-known hardware firm of Nussbaum, Van Syckel & Kendall, and manager of the Excelsior Patent Hook and Backband company, has gone on a tour to several western cities, including Louisville, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago and other points, in the interests of the celebrated backband. He expects an immense business.

The marriage occurred quietly at the bride's home on Warthen street.

STEAMING UP STREAM.

AN OGEECHEE CAPTAIN MAKES CONSIDERABLE TROUBLE.

He Orders the Tearing Away of Bridges Which Stood in His Way—A Lively Tussel Probable.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—A little steamboat and its captain are bothering the big Central railroad no little. The steamboat has been in the Ogeechee river off and on for several weeks. Not very long ago the owner, Captain Wimpy, announced that he wanted to run his boat as far as the depth of the water would permit. This he could not do, because there were two wooden bridges over the river, and away up above the Central railroad was preparing to build another bridge, and it was not to have a draw either. Captain Wimpy notified the Central that he

UP THE STREAM

of the bridge, as the stream is a navigable one within the meaning of the United States statute. So long as the two wooden bridges, Butler's and Schuman's, remained, the Central was protected.

On Tuesday the situation took a new aspect. According to the Central's information Captain Wimpy steamed up the Ogechee to Butler's bridge recently, and went over to Mauldin's branch, where Mr. Butler lived, and told him that he must

TEAR UP HIS BRIDGE.

On Tuesday Mr. Butler took a force of men to the bridge, tore up the flooring, and sent word to Captain Wimpy that if he wanted the piles up he would have to pull them up himself. Mr. Butler could not get them up. Out of this a suit is likely to grow. Mr. Butler, on second thought, has come to the conclusion that he was bulldozed, and that he was intimidated. His bridge had been and it is believed that it was standing long before the United States supreme court decision in the famous case of Gibbons vs. Ogden. The Central is about to throw its iron bridge across the Ogeechee on the line of the Eden extension. If the river is a navigable stream, at that point, within the definition of the statute, a draw will have to be put in, and a new bridge will have to be ordered.

THE LOWEST BID.

Frank Goodwin Gets the Contract for Building the Courthouse.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Frank Goodwin, of Decatur, Ala., got the contract for building the new courthouse for Chatham county this morning. His bid was $72,400. The award may be said to be conditional, as his bid will not be accepted unless he can give the necessary bond, which is double the amount of his bid. The other bidders and amounts were: Miles and Bradt, Atlanta, $97,500; Donnell and Bros., Louisville, Ky., $98,000; D. H. Sullivan, Charleston, $108,000; Henry Barlete, Savannah, $112,500; Lemmon & Co., builders of the DeSoto hotel, $120,500. Under the law the commissioners are required to award the contract to the lowest bidder, unless there is some especial reason for rejecting it. Mr. Goodwin's low bid was a surprise. A great difference is noticed in the amounts, the bid of Messrs. Lemmon being $37,500 higher than Mr. Goodwin's. The bond must be given by April 17. The real estate security must be within the state of Georgia.

The Rise and Fall of Professor Perry.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—One of the most thrilling adventures ever accomplished in Thomasville was the balloon ascension and parachute jump of Professor Perry. Seven thousand people had assembled to see it, and they thronged our streets, courthouse square and the tops of buildings. At 4 o'clock all things were ready, the signal "let her go" was given, and the monster creature, like a thing of life, arose gracefully and swiftly in the air. At an altitude of 2,000 feet the parachute was cut loose, the professor safely descended, and the balloon swung on for a mile and dropped in the pines back of Dewey farm.

He told your correspondent that this made his 724th ascent. He thinks there is very little danger in his calling and fully expects to live out his time. The Legion of Honor has insured his life for $2,000 and make no discrimination in its charges, though no accident companies will take him.

GADSDEN IMPROVING.

The Coosa Furnace Running on Full Time—News and Gossip.

GADSDEN, Ala., April 12.—[Special.]—The Coosa furnace is now running on full time again and giving employment to several hundred men who have been idle for some time.

The Gadsden, Ala., Furnace company have paid up all their old debts and are now in good shape to start up again. The papers for the sale of this plant have not been signed yet, but are expected to be every day.

Wynne two double storerooms for $7,500, and now owns 150 feet on Broad street and intends to open up a first class $2 a day hotel.

We are having large crowds of visitors now who come to invest in Gadsden dirt, and we are sure they can find no better or healthier location.

Mr. T. J. Phillips, a prominent livery stable man, was married to Miss Emma Johnson last week by Rev. J. A. Wynne.

W. B. Seals, of the Sunny South, paid us a pleasant visit today and reports everything in Atlanta on a boom.

T. L. Johnson, an old Atlanta man, who has located here, ran over to his former home this week.

This is court week and large crowds from the country are in daily attendance—some important cases to be tried.

The capital stock of the company is fifty thousand dollars, all of which has been taken. Eight miles of railway will be constructed, work upon which is already under headway. The road will be of standard gauge and electricmotors will be used thereon.

The Work of Dougherty Court.

ALBANY, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Superior court adjourned today. Grover and Dykes, the car breakers, who made so many desperate efforts to escape from the Albany jail, and proved themselves professional cracksmen, were found guilty upon two indictments, and sentenced for seven and four years respectively. A number of true bills were found against prominent citizens at the last county election. No bills were found for poker, dice throwing as has been erroneously reported, though the city council taking a clew from the grand jury, have broken up the practice which has become a very general one at some of the drug stores.

A MYSTERIOUS STORM,

Which Picked Up a Schoolhouse and Wrecked It.

ALBANY, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—On Wednesday afternoon, a terrific hail and rain storm, suddenly swooped down upon the town of Sycamore, eighteen miles from Tifton, on the G. S. Y. F railroad. It was about four o'clock. The sixty children at the academy had been dismissed about twenty minutes, when the terrible storm commenced. The academy, a large and new two storied building, and completely demolished. The second story was the Masonic lodge. A number of houses were unroofed, and then the storm was over, disappearing as mysteriously as it had come. It apparently dipped down for the purpose of scooping in the town, and then went up whence it came. No other damage was done in the neighborhood, not even the trees blown down. There was no storms at any of the surrounding towns, not even a shower.

WAS BLOWN DOWN

His Leg Cut Off.

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Bill Watkins, a Sparta negro, an employe of the Granite company, in attempting to get off of Venable Bros., rock train while in motion, fell underneath the wheels of the "dinkey," and had his left leg terribly crushed, early this morning. The accident occurred out near the quarries. The wounded negro was placed on a flat car and brought into town where he could get medical attention. He was at once carried to the office of Dr. Summey, who amputated the leg just above the knee.

The Firemanic Contest.

AMERICUS, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—At a called meeting of the Wide Awake and T. Wheatley fire companies last night, it was unanimously decided that the companies attend the firemanic contests to be held at Columbus and Athens on May 6th and 10th, the former company going to Athens and the latter to Columbus. The Wide Awakes are the champions of Georgia in firemanic contests, while the Wheatlys have scored records that they well may be proud of. Much enthusiasm prevails among the members over the proposed trip.

Dr. Wragg is Dead.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Dr. Thomas L. Wragg, on account of whose shooting was wired last night, died yesterday afternoon. He was buried today at Quincy.

THE SHOOTING OF M'GREGOR.

The Outcome of An Old Tragedy in Warrenton.

From the Warrenton, Ga., Clipper.

It is with hesitation and regret that we make mention this week of a sad affair which now throws a shadow over our community, and if it were not for the fact that is already known and discussed, not only in this county, but throughout the state, we would remain silent concerning it.

The news that the grand jury had found a true bill against Mr. J. M. W. Cody for the attempted murder of Major C. E. McGregor on the night of December 24th, 1887, fell like a thunderbolt upon the majority of our community, though expected by a few. A warrant was immediately issued and placed in the hands of the sheriff, who arrested Mr. Cody and brought him before Judge Lumpkin, who placed him under a $2,500 bond. Mr. Cody had no difficulty in finding bondsmen, his brother, Mr. Jep M. Cody, and his father-in-law, Mr. V. A. Johnson, standing the bond. The case was set for October court.

We do not care to express our opinion at present concerning this case, nor to enter into any of the details. The fact that Major McGregor was shot in his own yard about 9 o'clock on the night of December 24th and the circumstances connected with it are well known. Public opinion remained long in doubt as to who could have been the author of the deed, in fact the public was mystified and knew not whom to suspicion. Major McGregor was himself in doubt, but after a long course of careful and silent investigation and having added what information he could secure to what he already knew, he was convinced that Mr. Cody was the man who had attempted his life. Failing to get private settlement he has allowed the matter to go to the courts, with the result already announced.

What other evidence assisted the grand jury in arriving at the conclusion which they did is not definitely known, but the public has good reason to believe that friends of Mr. Cody who had enjoyed his confidence, were brought before the jury and placed in such a position that they were compelled to give unwilling evidence.

Mr. Cody is still in Warrenton, remains quiet, says little of the matter, and does not appear much disturbed, and it is said that his defense will be ready at the proper time.

Any further developments of the case will be promptly reported to our readers.

Court Notes.

During the last two days the case of Mrs. Young against the Western and Atlantic railroad has been pending in the city court.

Mrs. Young's little son had his arm cut off by a train at the Loyd street crossing some months ago. She sued for $10,000 damages and got a verdict. The attorneys for the railroad appealed and secured a new trial.

Rafe Hale was sent to jail after a trial by Judge Manning on a charge of perjury in swearing that his brother Will was under ten years of age Thursday.

Wearing Apparel Without Owners.

Three overcoats and a sack coat are waiting for owners at police headquarters. They are part of the goods stolen by the three negroes Asberry Cox, Will Dupree and Pete Williams, and recovered by Detectives Green and Cason. One is a light colored overcoat, light colored worsted lining and satin front, with cloth buttons. Another is a reversible overcoat of two shades of brown, and rubber or horn buttons. The third overcoat is a light snuff colored beaver overcoat, the sleeves lined with a purplish red lining, buckskin pockets, velvet collar, and cloth buttons. Besides these there is a chinchilla sack coat with black satin lining and velvet collar. Also a double barrel breach loading shotgun.

They are waiting for owners.

He Is Not the Man.

It will be remembered that about a week ago two white boys were taken from the home of Mrs. Mary Ormond, on Savannah street, by two men that pretended to be policemen.

One of those men was Mr. Dan O'Neal. Though he was fined $13.75, just the same as Mason, there is reason to believe that he was little more than a spectator of Mason's drunken work, and really deserves credit for controlling Mason in letting the boys go after they were carried some distance from the house. Next day a white man with exactly the same name was locked up for being drunk. It is but justice to Mr. O'Neal to state that the man who had attempted his life. Failing to get private settlement he has allowed the matter to go to the courts, with the result already announced.

The Covington and Macon Extension.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—Promptly at 8 o'clock a large and enthusiastic meeting was called to order by Captain Grantland, at the city hall, to hear discussed the proposed extension of the Covington and Macon railroad as proposed by Colonel Machen. Stirring speeches were made by Colonel Searey, who closed his remarks by subscribing $2,500 to the proposed road. The road, said one, is a necessity for Griffin, and one which we cannot and must not lose. It was feared a bomb had been exploded when it was announced that it was to be a cash subscription, but not so as it soon became apparent that not only had $12,300 been pledged, but the figures had run up to $20,000, with no doubt of $16,000 being at once available. The money is not to be used until the road has been completed, simply deposited as good faith.

To The Golden Gate.

Captain Fred D. Bush, of the Louisville and Nashville, in connection with Mr. James F. Agiar, of the Union Pacific, is working up a special excursion of Atlanta members of the American Pharmaceutical association and their friends, to the annual meeting to be held at San Francisco, June 24th to 28th. The cost of round trip tickets from Atlanta will be $104.25. Extra $5. Quite a little list of Atlanta druggists and their friends will take this delightful trip.

The Charleston News and Courier says:

"Mr. James Agiar and Mr. Hayden, of the Union Pacific railway, and Mr. F. D. Bush, of the Louisville and Nashville railway, were in this city yesterday arranging the details for a select special excursion to San Francisco for the members of the Pharmaceutical association and their friends in this city. This excursion will be similar to the special excursion under the charge of Mr. Agiar that left Charleston last July with many of our best citizens, notably the Rev. C. C. Pinckney, Dr. H. D. Fraser, Mr. J. H. Roper, and ten or fifteen other gentlemen and ladies.

"The leading druggists were the principal parties called upon yesterday, and quite a large number have signified their intention to join the excursion with their families and friends. Mr. Agiar desires, however, that applications should secure at least one Pullman sleeper full from here, and in that case only once changes will be made between Charleston and San Francisco, and at St. Louis, where the party will be transferred to the special train, which will be the grandest excursion ever made to the Pacific coast from any part of the United States.

"This train will run special, stopping only at points of interest, among them Denver and Salt Lake City, where the party will be tendered the best hotels, and from which points tours will be made to the leading points of interest in Colorado and Utah.

"A very reasonable rate has been made for the entire trip, including hotel charge, meals, sleeping car, side excursions, etc., and every expense en route. This will be a trip of a lifetime, and from the reports of Rev. Dr. Pinckney, Dr. Fraser, Mr. Roper and others, who made the trip last season, it will be a thoroughly enjoyable one. Mr. Agiar, the general agent of the Union Pacific, will be glad to furnish particulars to all who may desire to avail themselves of this excellent opportunity of taking a trip across the continent.

Summer Rates for the South.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 9.—The general passenger agents of the principal lines in the south met at the Galt house for the purpose of discussing rates for the summer and tourist rates generally, and resolved upon a slight advance in the rates as at present existing. Those in attendance were Colonel C. P. Atmore, of the Louisville and Nashville; James N. Taylor, of the Richmond and Danville company, Richmond, Va.; E. O. McCormick, of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago; A. F. Hanson, Illinois Central; R. M. Barr, Louisville and Western; George Rogers, agent of the Pennsylvania company; L. J. Murphy, Newport News and Mississippi Valley company; A. O. McDonald, of the Florida Transit company; A. Maddox, of Richmond, Va., associated roads of Virginia. Only a few of the gentlemen had arrived at 10 o'clock, when the session was to be held, and the meeting was deferred until four o'clock in the afternoon, when order was called by President J. L. Taylor.

The condition of the passenger traffic in the south was discussed at length, and rates decided upon to conform to the new restrictions of the interstate commerce law. According to the doings of this meeting the rates can not be announced at present, and they will not be known for some time yet.

Both Coming South.

Mr. Will H. Newman, who has been general agent of the Queen and Crescent at Louisville, has been made general southern agent of the Monon and the Louisville and Southern with headquarters here in Atlanta. He will have entire charge of the southern business of the lines, and will have hand some offices with ample clerical assistance. The Louisville Courier-Journal in commending upon this appointment, says:

"Mr. Newman is one of the most popular men in the railroad service in Louisville is more popular among the merchants than Mr. Newman. When the Louisville Southern's offices were being made up, he had the solid, unsolicited indorsement of Main street, and on all sides it was supposed that he would be made the company's general freight agent. He received an office which was equally as valuable to him, however, and now gives it up for the new position with the Monon. He will be here some time yet, but in a few weeks will move with his family to Atlanta, to begin his characteristic hustle among Rangers, and in a new field.

Mr. Albert Wrenn, who was formerly with the road, returns to its service, and will come with Mr. Newman as traveling freight agent for the south.

Not Entitled to First Mortgage Benefits.

RICHMOND, Va., April 11.—[Special.]—The court of appeals has just decided that the general mortgage creditors of the Shenandoah Valley railroad company are, to the extent of $1,500,000, entitled to the benefits and security of the first mortgage. It also decided that the car trust has no lien upon the property and rights of the lessee of the company for the rent of their cars and that Kimberly and Clark, as holders of the income mortgage bonds, have no security but that of an income mortgage.

The Chattanooga Races.

The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis have announced that on April 17 and 18 they will give a rate of one and one-third fare for the round trip from all points on that line to Chattanooga, on account of the races. An additional 25 cents will be collected and turned over to the Trotting association.

A Big Showing.

The annual report of the Norfolk and Western railroad covering 1888 shows the gross earnings at $1,899,598.59, operating expenses $3,034,927.13, net earnings $1,897,677.76, an increase of seven per cent over the previous year.

A Safe Business.

The records for fifty years show that in all that time no newsboy has been killed on any of the trains.

Fifty a Day.

The car wheel works at Decatur, Alabama, are turning out fifty completed car wheels a day, and the demand for their work is on the increase.

The Tallahassee Floridian Times has it from a reliable source that some northern parties are negotiating for the purchase of large bodies of timber land in Calhoun and Washington counties, with a view to building a railroad to St. Joseph, where they will erect an extensive lumber plant, and use the road for supplying the mills with logs. They have ample means, and will, no doubt, carry out the project if they can make a favorable deal for the lands.

The Electric Street Railway Cars.—At Bell street cars are housed the four handsomest street cars ever seen in Atlanta. They are to be used on the electric street railway, on Edgewood avenue. The electric system is the most approved one in use now, having been introduced within the past three years. There are only two lines of this sort in the south, one in Washington and one in Danville, Va. The cable is overhead, and this is connected with the motor car. Behind the motor car is the tow car. The electric motors are under the car, and not a machine inside the car, as in the dummies. The motor car corresponds to a first-class railway coach, the tow car to a second-class coach. These in the compress now are all tow coaches. They are beautifully upholstered and comfortably arranged in every way.

WHEN they find how rapidly health is restored by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The reason is that this preparation contains only the purest and most powerful alteratives and tonics. To thousands yearly it proves a veritable elixir of life.

Mrs. Jos. Lake, Brockway Centre, Mich., writes: "Liver complaint and indigestion made my life a burden and came near ending my existence. For more than four years I suffered untold agony. I was reduced almost to a skeleton, and hardly had strength to drag myself about. All kinds of food distressed me, and only the most delicate could be digested at all. Within the time mentioned several physicians treated me without giving relief. Nothing that I took seemed to do any permanent good until I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which has produced wonderful results. Soon after commencing to take the Sarsaparilla I could see an

I sent him Ayer's Almanac and the testimonials it contained induced him to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED WEDNESDAY APRIL 10, 1889.

L. E. Bleckley, Chief Justice—Reported for the Constitution by Peeples and Stevens, Supreme Court Reporters.

In these cases Blandford, J., was providentially prevented from presiding.

Anderson vs. Holland et al. Ejectment. from Fulton. Wills.—Executors. Sales. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke.

Bleckley, C. J.—A will reciting that the testator owned land in partnership with another, and leaving it discretionary with the executrix to sell his half or buy the other half, or to divide, or to sell the lot altogether and divide the money, authorized a private sale by the executrix in connection with the owner of the other half.

Judgment affirmed.

Hopkins & Glenn, for plaintiff.

Hulsey & Bateman, for defendants.

Hamilton vs. Richmond and Danville Railroad company. Case, from city court of Atlanta. Railroads. Negligence. Master and Servant. Before Judge Van Epps.

Bleckley, C. J.—Where a watchman in a railroad yard uses a platform appropriated to the transfer of freights for the purpose of running along it at night in the dark, he does so at his own risk, if not appearing that the platform was intended by the company for such a purpose, or that he had any reason to think it was so intended.

Judgment affirmed.

Hopkins & Glenn, for plaintiff.

Henry Jackson, for defendant.

Reid, administrator, vs. Wright, comptroller-general. Rule, from Fulton. Tax collectors. Taxes. Comptroller-general. Principal and surety. Before Judge Marshal J. Clarke.

Simmons, J.—1. Under the facts of this case, the tax collector having collected taxes and failed to pay them over to the comptroller-general, the latter had the right to issue executions against him and his sureties.

2. Whenever a sheriff has money in his hands collected from a defaulting tax collector, it is his duty to pay it over to the comptroller-general at once. There is no lawful authority for any person to give him notice to hold it up until his claim can be passed upon by the court. Code, §§881, 912; Goldsmith vs. Kemp, 58 Ga. 105.

3. If the tax collector received the taxes in question while acting under his bond for 1885-6, it seems that the securities on that bond would be liable for the amount so received, but not so liable if they were received under his bond for 1887-8. If they were received after his re-election for 1887-8, and after he had given a new bond for those years, it seems that the sureties on his bond for 1885-86 ought not to be held liable therefor; and it is possible that, if this state of facts should be made to appear to the comptroller general, he might relieve the securities on the first bond. If he should not have power or authority to do this, an appeal could be made to the legislatures, which would doubtless afford appropriate relief.

Judgment affirmed.

N. J. & T. A. Hammond, for plaintiff in error.

C. D. Hill, solicitor general, Mayson & Hill and W. S. Thomson, contra.

Rodgers vs. Furse. Motion, from Fulton. Judgments. Attorney and client. Liens. Practice. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke.

Simmons, J.—The plaintiff may consent for a judgment in his favor to be set aside by the court, but it must be subject to the right of his attorney for fees, and afterwards the attorney may proceed to establish his right for fees, in doing which he must establish the plaintiff's right to recover on the state of facts existing at the time the case was first disposed of, independently of the question of fees. Twiggs vs. Chambers, 50 Ga. 279; Coleman & Newsom vs. Ryan, 58 Ga. 13.2

(a) Under the facts of this case, the trial judge did not abuse his discretion in setting aside the judgment.

Judgment affirmed.

Robert L. Rodgers, in propria persona, for plaintiff in error.

Ponce de Leon springs and Piedmont park (Hurt's park) are opportunity to secure a building site unsurpassed in Atlanta. The scarcity of such localities will cause these lots to be bought up at once. GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.—TO THE SUperior Court of said County: The petition of James D. Collins, William H. Venable, Samuel H. Venable and W. D. Palmer shows that they have associated themselves with the object of having themselves, their associates and successors incorporated by and under the corporate name of "Collins Brick Company" for the period of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that period, and as a corporation to carry on the particular business of making and selling brick and contracting for and doing any and all manner of work into which brick enters or may be used; of making and disposing of any and all manner of articles into which clay enters or may be used; of quarrying stone or other materials and mining in any way for any and all such articles or substances as are or can be used, either directly or indirectly, in the erection of buildings, sewers, culverts, pavements or other work of like character, and of doing any work that may be constructed, in whole or part, from such materials, or any other. The amount of capital to be employed by them, actually paid in, is twenty-five thousand dollars, which capital they desire the privilege of increasing to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars when and as they see fit. Their principal place of doing business will be in said county, in or near the city of Atlanta, but they desire the privilege of establishing such agencies as they may see fit, and of doing any part of their work at such points as they may deem it to their interest to have the same done. Wherefore they pray that they, their associates and successors may be incorporated by and under the name and for the time and purposes aforesaid, with all the rights, privileges and powers authorized by law, or incident to or capable of being exercised by such corporations. And petitioners will ever pray, etc. CANDLER, THOMSON & CANDLER, Petitioners' Attorneys.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 13, 1889.

What About the 10,000?

There are 10,000 men in Georgia who would gladly subscribe something to the Confederate Home if they were only asked to do so. Hundreds of them have already made up their minds to do so.

Now, will not the 10,000 come in today—this morning—and enter their subscriptions promptly and spontaneously? There is no canvasser that can speak for this cause, as the cause itself speaks! There is no argument that can convince and no sentiment that lead, as the argument and sentiment that is carried in the persons of those old veterans, in their poverty, their helplessness and dependence!

It will be to the glory of this cause and the glory of Georgia, that this subscription is voluntary and spontaneous—that it is not beseeched by committees and drawn out by argument—but that it comes from the heart of the people, as laughter from the lips of a child!

Don't wait to be asked! Don't postpone your giving! It doesn't matter whether you give much or little—only give freely and promptly!

We hope to close the list at $30,000 tonight, so that the meeting for organization may be called at once, and the actual work begun! Send in today—not next week but —TODAY!

We Must Reach $30,000 Tonight!

Send in your subscription to Confederate Home today—so that we can close up the list tonight at $30,000!

The Occupation of the New Capitol.

The following communication comes to THE CONSTITUTION and suggests an idea which ought to be acted on:

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: Is it not time that arrangements are being made for the formal occupation, by the state, of the new capitol. It seems that the occasion could be made of exceeding interest, and the day could be made one long to be remembered. The legislature meets in the old capitol on the 3rd of July, and as the day following is one dear to all citizens of the United States, no more appropriate time could be chosen for the formal ceremonies of moving in the new capitol. Therefore, cannot something be done to make this day the occasion for the formal entrance into the building, and to celebrate it as it should be. Who has authority to make the necessary arrangements?

H. B. C.

Atlanta, April 12th, '89.

The suggestion of our correspondent is well timed and decidedly appropriate.

Why would it not do for the governor, the president of the senate and the speaker of the house to decide on a programme for the day? Such an act would be eminently proper; indeed, as the legislature would not assemble in time to arrange for the celebration of its first sitting in the new building, it seems that the distinguished officials above named have every reason to agree on a programme befitting the occasion. The capitol commission has finally adjourned, and unless arrangements are made by the gentlemen suggested, none will be made.

What says Governor Gordon, President duBignon and Speaker Clay to the Fourth of July as the day, and to their consulting and announcing a programme of exercises for the occasion.

Atlanta will do her part toward entertaining the crowd that will be here.

Have You Subscribed to the "Home?"

If not, send in your subscription TODAY! Don't delay! We want to close the $30,000 tonight!

The Next Apportionment.

The time at which the apportionment of representation, based on the census of 1890, will take effect, is a matter of considerable import, and on the decision concerning it may depend the success or failure of one or the other of the two great parties in the next presidential election.

The bill fixing the apportionment based on the census of 1870 finally passed congress and received the signature of the president in May, 1872. A similar bill for the census of 1880 was signed by the president in February, 1882.

The next census will be less complicated than the one preceding, and the law under which it will be taken requires that the enumeration of population shall be tabulated in a much shorter time than the last. It is certainly reasonable to presume that the new apportionment will be fixed by the spring of 1892, that for each of the two preceding censuses having been determined upon in that time.

Of course the making of the law fixing the new apportionment will depend to a great extent on the political complexion of the two houses of congress to be elected in 1890, for if both are republican, as now, and the new census offers opportunity for use to republican advantage, congress will take as quick occasion as possible to give the republican party such benefit as can be gained. It is, therefore, probable that the question whether or not the electoral vote of 1892 will be based on the census of 1890 depends on the result of the congressional elections of 1890.

Idiotic Diagrams.

A correspondent writes: "In a recent issue of a Boston paper I find the following: 'Fox hunting has been struck from the list of the sports (??) for the day.' With one trifling exception, I understand this statement thoroughly, but it is this trifling exception that worries me. At the risk of exposing my ignorance, which I am willing to do, however, if I can thereby get valuable information. What does the Boston editor mean by his combination of (??)? If I seem to be a fool, pardon the question, but answer it all the same."

Our correspondent appears to have had his eyes opened all of a sudden, but this is no doubt due to the fact that the diagram he reproduces from the Boston paper is a peculiarly aggravated form of editorial insanity. We are not sure what the Boston editor really does mean, but it may be taken for granted that it is nothing important. The typographical trick that he employs was out of date—"lost to ios and nidering," so to speak—not many years after typography was invented.

We do not know what a Boston editor means by such a diagram, but when a country editor in Ohio employs this combination, to-wit: (?), or this: (!), we know very well that he intends, in his feeble and foolish way, to express doubt in the first instance and astonishment in the other.

We advise our correspondent, if he proposes to write for publication, or even for the amusement of his friends, never to be guilty of incorporating such idiotic diagrams in his letters or contributions.

No good writer uses them, and no person of taste admires them.

Stanley in Africa.

Editor Henry Labouchere, of London, is not sure that the Stanley expedition has not cost more than it will ever come to, and this is the opinion that THE CONSTITUTION ventured to express several days ago.

There is no doubt that Mr. Stanley is an admirable and a picturesque figure in the newspapers and in the minds of those who have an exaggerated idea of the importance of mere adventure. But everything in life has its common sense side, and when the results of Stanley's recent journey are seriously considered it will be found that they amount to nothing practical.

He will, no doubt, be known in history as a great explorer, and it is probable that he will outshine Livingstone, for your modern historian is also fond of the picturesque. And yet Stanley's journeys had no scientific stimulus and no real scientific result, and, least of all, his last. What does Stanley care about geographical science? Just what he cared for the south when he was fighting in the confederate ranks, and just what he cared for the union cause when he deserted and joined the federal army.

The sum and substance of his recent expedition, according to his own account, is the death of many hundred people, and from this loss of life no good whatever resulted. He reached Emin Pasha, but in such deplorable plight that if Emin had really needed succor Stanley and his men would have perished in reaching him. As a matter of fact, however, Emin Pasha rescued Stanley. Living in peace and plenty, surrounded by an army of his own organization, Emin heard that a white man was marching through the country in distress.

Whereupon he sent out his scouts and his couriers, accompanied by relief expeditions, and it was not long before Stanley was rescued and was able to turn around and march back again.

During his expedition several hundred men sickened and died, a number fled into the wilderness and perished, and several were hanged as examples to the rest. The sum total of the expedition is that a new mountain was discovered and that one of the lakes is not as deep as it was a hundred years ago.

There is nothing like humbug!

DEACON RICHARD SMITH has been in New York looking up evidences of republican senatorial corruption. We wish the good deacon well.

A NEW ENGLAND paper says that when the south reaches a high state of prosperity and civilization it will be able to support a baseball league.

PRIVATE SECRETARY LEE HALFORD has to answer seven hundred letters a day. No wonder he whistles while at work.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

THE INTERVIEW WITH Sir Henry Gratton Guinness which appeared in these columns yesterday, touched chiefly upon the missionary work in which that gentleman is engaged. Some of our readers may not be aware that our distinguished visitor belongs to the widely known Guinness family of brewers. The wealth of one of the Guinnesses caused him to be knighted. The eminent Christian philanthropist who is now stopping at one of our negro institutes, still retains a large interest in the brewery which proved such a mine of wealth to his ancestors, and with the money derived from the sale of his famous ale, he liberally aids the spread of the Christian religion in heathen lands. Naturally, with religion goes civilization, and with civilization the products of the Guinness brewery enter new fields. So long as the brewery holds out, the missionary work in which its proprietor is interested will doubtless continue. It may strike some of our people as a queer thing to make a brewery take such an active part in spreading the gospel, but an Englishman sees things from a different standpoint. He sees no harm in good ale, and believes that a man can make it and stand in the front rank of Christian workers.

MR. D. MORRISON, of West End, comes to the front with two astounding light brahma eggs. One weighs nearly four ounces, and the other three and a half ounces. Mr. Morrison's neighbors are waiting to see what will be his next sensation.

THE BUSY WORLD is the name of a bright and entertaining weekly just started in Atlanta by Hon. J. M. Arnow. The Busy World will look after the manufacturing and commercial interests of the city, and it is to be hoped that it will be liberally patronized. Editor Arnow is an able journalist and deserves success. His paper is for sale at the news stands.

"THE AMERICAN" FOR the current week presents an attractive variety of contents. Editors Armstrong and Orchard have spared no pains to secure the best available talent, and each week the names of new contributors are added to their already strong staff. The articles, stories and poems in "The American" are of a high order of excellence, and the editorial page is notably interesting and ably written. The managers have shown that they can supply the demand for a first class weekly magazine in Atlanta. The next thing in order is for the people to support it liberally. "The American" should visit every family circle.

PEOPLE HERE AND THERE.

SMITH.—Now that William Henry Smith has been elevated to the peerage he will sink the name of Smith, and blossom out in one of thundering length and euphonious sound.

COQUELIN.—It is said that M. Coquelin's acting in this country netted him $50,000 for one season.

PULITZER.—It is said that Editor Pulitzer of the New York World is hopelessly blind.

PRYOR.—A story is going the rounds of the newspapers to the effect that General Roger A. Pryor deserted the confederate army in front of Petersburg, and walked into the lines of the enemy whose guns were trained on the city where he had left his wife. The general has made no reply as yet.

WARD.—Mrs. Williard P. Ward, daughter of Judge Erskine, of Atlanta, recently gave at her residence in New York a small and informal tea to Mrs. Grover Cleveland. The Herald in mentioning the tea says that Mrs. Ward is one of Mrs. Cleveland's most intimate friends.

ECHOES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Praise to Superintendent Terrell.

DARIEN, McIntosh county, April 11.—Editors Constitution—For the first time in about a year or more THE CONSTITUTION arrived in Darian the day after publication. Too much credit cannot be given Superintendent Terrill for straightening out our mails. The good results of his work are now being seen every day in this section.

R. W. GRUBB, Editor Darien Gazette.

NOW, ALL TOGETHER,

AND LET US TRY AND REACH THE GOAL TODAY.

SIX THOUSAND DOLLARS WILL DO IT.

A Good Day's Work Yesterday—Today Will See the Amount Raised For the Georgia Veteran's Home.

The list this morning has pulled above $24,000!

Up to this point THE CONSTITUTION has made no appeal on its own account. Now, we do appeal for enough money today to put the list up to $30,000! We ask our friends everywhere to help bring about this result. It only requires less than $6,000 to make it. A score of towns and cities are at work, and they ought to send in half this amount. Will not Atlanta make up the other $3,000 today?

And then tonight let us telegraph to the world that in one week by voluntary subscriptions the $30,000 asked for has been raised! It can be done if those who intend to subscribe will only do so promptly.

There is no reason for delaying a day. Subscriptions for $1 upward have already been received, and there is no one who cannot give that much.

Send in today, whatever your subscription is, and in less than a week everything will be organized and the work actually begun!

He Gave What He Could.

CHIPLEY, Ga., April 10.—Editors Constitution: Though in poverty I feel there is none too poor to reverence the grand and brave old soldiers of the south, I enclose one dollar with the sincerity of a "Ruth" to a "Naomi." My heart is burning and bleeding for your success. You have touched the electric wires that lead to the tender cords of southern hearts and sympathies. Old Harris will send you a fund, as there is a chivalry among her citizens next to none in the state.

CORRESPONDENT CHIPLEY.

A Northern Man Contributes $50.

The following letter is in such excellent spirit, so courteous and spontaneous, that it is worth more than the contribution it brings. Our people will appreciate the thoughtful courtesy of Mr. Andrus.

Hon. Henry W. Grady: I admire your energy in raising funds for the confederate home at Atlanta for your disabled soldiers, who suffered so much during the terrible war between the north and south, from '61 to '65.

I am a northern man, and did all in my power (as representative from Franklin county, New York, in the legislature, during the first three years of the war) to sustain the government in the prosecution of the war against the south, because I believed if the south should succeed in building up a separate government, it would destroy our influence with all other nations and make it a laughing stock for all nations who do not believe the people capable of self-government.

After the long and desperate struggle of our forefathers to secure our glorious independence, such separation would have been terrible.

Myself and wife have spent part of several winters since 1875, in different parts of the south, and so far as we know them, are much pleased with the southern people. Your sufferings during carpet-bag government must have been great. Those carpet-bag men came to govern and make laws and rob, so as to enrich themselves—pretending to be the best friends to the colored people—when in fact they were their worst enemies. The south is now in a very prosperous condition, and I know of no people in the north who are more loyal, and true to the government and old flag, than the southern people, and in all our travels I have never found one who wishes for the return of slavery or for a southern confederacy.

You will please put my name down for fifty dollars for myself and wife as a small contribuion to the confederate home. I have no doubt many northern people will contribute towards this noble and Christian enterprise—one which the Lord will bless with good results. ALBERT ANDRUS.

Every Man Honorably Bound to Respond.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 12.—Mr. Henry W. Grady: I hereby subscribe ten dollars for the confederate veterans' home.

I consider it Georgia's duty to provide for our helpless heroes, and every man in the state is honorably bound to respond to the call.

The dangers, fatigue and wounds borne by our soldiers should enshrine them in our hearts. Very respectfully, W. F. CRUSSELLE.

$10 From Conyers.

CONYERS, Ga., April 11.—Editors Constitution: Put me down ten dollars for the confederate home. Respectfully,

JOHN. H. ALMOND.

$10 From Talbotton.

TALBOTTON, Ga., April 10.—Hon. H. W. Grady: Put down for the home: B. F. Carlisle, one-armed confederate, $5; and for myself, ex-confederate, $5; total, $10. Yours truly, W. P. WATTS.

$10 From Dr. Morrison.

DEAR BROTHER GRADY: Please allow an ex-Kentuckian a ten dollar interest in the "confederate home." Would that I could do more for the noblest enterprise in your commonwealth. Yours very truly,

H. C. MORRISON.

$100 From Mr. C. C. McGehee.

MR. H. W. GRADY: I will contribute one hundred dollars towards the securing of a "confederate home," and beg herewith to thank you for your noble efforts in a most worthy cause. Yours truly,

C. C. MCGEHEE.

$10 From a Veteran of the Eighth Georgia.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 12.—Hon. H. W. Grady: I will give $10 for the confederate home. I wish I could give a hundred times more. The two soldiers whom I loved at the time, perhaps more tenderly than all others—George Stovall and Charley Norton—were killed at my side in our first battle. But my association with the rank and file of the army during the war, and seeing the hardships so bravely and cheerfully endured, caused me to love every confederate soldier as a brother and to wish for him all the good things of this life. May God bless your enterprise and give you success beyond all your hopes. Respectfully,

W. H. GLENN.

Nine Hundred and Fifty Dollars From Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 12.—Henry W. Grady: At a meeting of citizens this afternoon, nine hundred and fifty dollars was subscribed to the home.

The committee will call on others desiring to subscribe tomorrow, and the result will be wired you. G. GUNBY JORDAN.

A Macon Man Sends $10.

MACON, Ga., April 11.—Henry W. Grady: I am heartily in sympathy with the confederate home movement, and wish for the present to contribute $10 to its success—should have contributed sooner, but supposed some organized movement would have been begun here. Yours truly, HOWARD M. SMITH.

A Ringing Letter From Hon. George N. Lester.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 10.—Editors Constitution: My heart has been throbbing and bounding with grateful enthusiasm for three or four days over your suggestion of a home for confederate veterans, to be be built and paid for by Georgia and Georgians. You are surely the wisest and the luckiest editor I have ever known. You have a happy habit of saying the best things exactly at the right time and in the right way. Heretofore you have said many things and written many things that created a genuine and unbounded enthusiasm all over the land. But at no time in the past have you ever dug so deeply down into the hearts of the people as when you struck for a confederate veterans' home in Georgia. That clarion call of "Come back, Stewart, come back," has not ceased to ring in my ears night or day since I read it. If you were to live a thousand years you will never beat it. From the bottom of a warm southern heart, I thank you for it, and my children shall be taught to bless your very name. Sir, you have kindled a beacon light that shall burn and blaze and brighten all over the south, and its lustre shall shine into and cheer every other place where philanthropy is not forgotton, and heroic patriotism is not a dead letter. I will not, just at this time, send a contribution, because, if I did, it would be too small, but I write to approve and applaud the noble enterprise, and the big brain, and the patriotic heart that conceived it, and to assure you that in due time, out of my poverty, I will do as much to aid it as any man in Georgia in proportion to my means. Keep the matter before the people, and Georgia and the Georgians will soon build a home for indigent confederate veterans that will be a monument to the heroism, philanthropy and patriotism of the state. Respectfully, GEO. N. LESTER.

From a Distinguished Union Soldier.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 12.—Atlanta Constitution: As we most heartily approve of the purpose to build a home for disabled confederate soldiers, enclosed find our check for twenty-five dollars, which we cheerfully contribute for the purpose. With sincere wishes for the success of the enterprise. Very respectfully, etc.,

ATLANTA RUBBER CO.,
by J. R. Lewis.

The First Resolutions Ever Passed.

We take pleasure in printing the following letter, which shows that the Eighteenth Georgia, at its reunion two years ago, formally started the movement for the confederate home. The members of the old Eighteenth will doubtless subscribe liberally and promptly now that their scheme has been fairly started and their resolutions are about to be realized. Dr. Roach starts the list for the Eighteenth with $20:

DR. E. J. ROACH, Atlanta, Ga., Dear Sir: I see several articles going the rounds in regard to the establishment of a home for Georgia confederate veterans, and as you were the first one to mention the matter I think you should have full credit therefor.

The following is an exact copy of some resolutions prepared by you and unanimously adopted by our Survivors association at our sixth annual meeting in Acworth on the 26th day of August, 1887:

President Roach offered the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The survivors of the 18th Georgia regiment, recognizing the decrepitude of old age, as well as wounds, in the surviving veterans of the late confederate army from Georgia; therefore

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed from this association to act in conjunction with like committees from similar associations with a view to the establishment of a Georgia confederate veterans' home and a general relief committee.

"Resolved further, That this committee be directed to request the appointment of like committees from other regimental organizations in this state in furtherance of this object."

Dr. E. I. Roach, Captain J. L. Lemon and Major J. A. Stewart were appointed as this committee.

Our regiment was the first that ever met in reunion; our Survivors' association the first ever incorporated and the first to make a move in the direction of a home for Georgia confederate veterans, and we should have credit therefor. Respectfully,

GEORGES W. MADDOX,
Sec'y Survivors' Ass'n 18th Ga. Regiment.

The "Home" in Albany.

ALBANY, Ga., April 12.—[Special.]—The News and Advertiser is pushing the subscriptions for the confederate veterans' home, and will send a large list by wire tomorrow night. The people are enthusiastic and responding cheerfully.

INTERVIEWS WITH ATLANTIANS.

Who Continue to Talk and Work and Give For the Home.

HON. JOHN B. GOODWIN: I think it is one of the best enterprizes that have been inaugurated in years, and deserves success, and every person who is able ought to be represented in it. I am glad of an opportunity to contribute my mite of $10 to it.

MR. Z. A. RICE: I am heartily in favor of the home. My idea is to buy land and put up cottages for their homes, and let a man work at his trade, whatever it is. I first thought it might be a good idea to let everything be in common and if a fellow made corn, have one crib to put it in, but some would work and some would not, and those who worked would be dissatisfied. So I think it would be best to have them work separate.

I contributed from $120,000 to $140,000 to the confederacy when I sold the state of Georgia 250 bales of cotton for state money, but I feel like giving a little more, and you can put me down for $50.

MR. CHARLES H. SWIFT: You could not strike a more enthusiastic man than I am on this subject. A man after leaving his family and risking his life in the fight for the confederacy, certainly ought to have a place to dwell and a place for his family. I am willing to give my mite toward it, I can tell you that. This first, and a hospital for Atlanta next, and I am satisfied. I would like to be able to put them both up and commence tomorrow.

MR. A. P. MORGAN: I think it is a good thing, and I would like to see it established. The people can easily afford to build the home, and the state ought to keep it up and run it. It is with this as it was with the Young Mens' Christian association, everybody wants to have something in it.

MR. BEN PORTER: It is a good thing, and it is the duty of the people of the south to take care of their maimed soldiers, as they can't get anything from the government. Of course, we expect to contribute.

$10 From an Athens Firm.

ATHENS, Ga., April 11.—Hon. H. W. Grady: While too young ourselves to be active participants in the stirring events of the late civil war, we duly appreciate the efforts of those who did, and beg to be allowed to contribute our mite to your very laudable and patriotic enterprise, only regretting that our means are unequal to meet the demands of our hearts. Your draft on us for $10 will be duly honored upon presentation. Yours truly,

GRANT & WILCOX.

The Wholesale Houses Getting Up Lists.

A number of the wholesale houses are getting up subscription lists in their own houses, leading off with liberal subscriptions by the firm and following up with long lists of contributions from employes who gladly embrace the opportunity to subscribe.

Miss Field Sends $5.

MR. H. W. GRADY, Atlanta, Ga.—I send you $5 for the confederate veterans' home. I only wish I could make it five thousand dollars. Respectfully, MISS L. A. FIELD.

The Telegraph Operators Will Contribute.

The railroad men have come up with a liberal list this morning, and their friends, the telegraph operators, are interested in the matter and say they will have a list for tomorrow.

Dalton Moving and Will Send a List.

EX-Senator Tom Jones, of Whitfield, telegraphs that Dalton will have a list in by Saturday night to help swell the total to $30,000 by Sunday morning.

$5 From a Veteran's Son.

ATLANTA, April 12.—Hon. H. W. Grady, Atlanta Constitution: Please put down ($5) five dollars for the "Georgia confederate home" from a son of a Seventh Georgia veteran, whose blood has billed in listening to the recital of the war, and whose heart swells in sympathy for his father's comrades. Very truly, JEFF DAVIS DUNWOODY.

Walton County Moving.

MACON, Ga., April 11.—Mr. Grady: I trust the people of Walton county will raise a subscription for the Confederate home, the grandest monument the people of Georgia can build. In the meantime here is a check for $5. Yours truly,

GEO. M. NAPIER.

Colonel A. J. McBride Sends $50.

NEW YORK, April 10, 1889.—Mr. H. W. Grady: I again congratulate you on the hearty response made by Georgians to your manly editorial. Enter my name on your subscription list for confederate home for fifty dollars. Truly yours, A. J. MCBRIDE.

CAPTAIN A. J. WEST: I have not language to express my enthusiasm on the subject. I I was in the cause from boyhood. I went into the war when I was sixteen years old. I am with them heart and soul and I intend to contribute.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

Let the People Build and the State Support.

From the Augusta, Ga., News.

So let us send on our voluntary subscriptions, build the home with the free will offerings of a loving and reawakened people, and then let the Massengale bill and the legislative process provide for the proper and regular maintenance of the home till the last old confederate hears his final reveille and passes over the river to rest under the shade of the trees.

Let the Good Work Go On.

From the Cuthbert, Ga., Enterprise.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION of last Saturday, in a most admirable editorial, suggested that immediate steps be taken to establish a soldier's home in Georgia, and, to prove its faith by its works, subscribed $1,000 for the purpose. This is a grand and glorious work and every man and woman in Georgia, who is able, should help it on to success. Let the home be made worthy of the great empire state of the south, and of the noble and sacred cause in defense of which, many of her true and devoted sons were made helpless and dependent for life. God speed the day when in every state in the south ample protection and comfort shall be provided for her soldiers.

Virginia Alone of All Our States.

From the Milledgeville, Ga., Chronicle.

Among all the southern states only one has instituted measures to care for her neglected soldiers. That confederate daughter is she who bore the brunt of the terrible warfare, when the rich valleys of the Potomac ran red with blood.

Virginia alone has realized her obligations to her wrecked and ruined defenders. Virginia alone has built for them a place where they can lay their weary heads and rest their tired bones, and today, after a quarter century has gone, Lee Camp stands the most beautiful monument commemoration of southern appreciation of southern heroes.

But the spirit of southern heroism is by no means dead. It has slumbered in our southland; but Texas and Georgia are aroused to the sublime duty, and grasp hands in the noble work.

The time may come when the "home" will be the only means of saving some from absolute want. Just a short while ago two Georgians—think of it, men who became hungry for Georgia's meal—were turned away from Lee camp because they had no room for them. Forced by want, they "went begging," and the answer forced by inability was a denial.

In the name of the patriotism which God approves, women admire and men die for, let us of Milledgeville and Baldwin county send a contribution to Atlanta.

Of Course Brunswick Is Right!

From the Brunswick, Ga., Times.

Brunswick does not wait to be asked to do the right thing.

She sees it, and does it. Yesterday afternoon Messrs. T. O'Connor, Jr., W. D. Houston and E. D. Aiken, prominent business men, left their office desks voluntarily, and proceeded to raise a purse for the soldiers' home for confederate veterans, to be erected in Atlanta.

The streets were taken at 3 o'clock and by 5 o'clock $200 had been subscribed and was in hand ready to be forwarded,

Over $2 per minute.

How is that?

After the work had practically been done, the following telegram was received from Mr. H. W. Grady, the projector of the movement:

Mayor Golson: Can you start a list for confederate home, and wire us result? Have passed $20,000. W. H. GRADY.

Brunswick simply anticipated Mr. Grady, as that gentleman might have expected. In fact it is never a laggard in a good cause, and somehow manages to always do the right thing at the right time.

And this is the keynote of her present power and future greatness.

The "Eagle" Led the Flight.

We take great pleasure in reprinting the following, and giving the "Eagle" full credit for its start in the matter referred to. The article escaped our attention, but the "Eagle" mistakes in thinking the "obscure country paper" has little influence. It is from them that the best influences come. THE CONSTITUTION claims no credit for this work, but heartily acknowledges that others preceded it in the field, and that all of us have been too tardy:

From the Gainesville Eagle.

Most of the readers of the Eagle will perhaps remember that, in our issue of March 28th, we had an editorial in which we very pointedly criticised and condemned the policy adopted by some persons in appealing to the people of the north for aid in supporting indigent southern veterans. We had looked anxiously for some of the influential leading papers of the south to notice the matter and to speak out boldly against such a humiliating course, knowing as we did that an obscure country paper, like ours, might write and protest until the crack of doom, and its comments and suggestions would be seen and noticed save by a few, and that from these few they would elicit little or no attention; but we looked in vain, for if a solitary paper in the south ever raised its voice against this humiliating and ill-advised proceeding or suggested any plan or proposed any movement by which to relieve our suffering veterans, without begging the northern people for help we never saw it.

We are truly glad that so widely circulated and influential a newspaper as THE CONSTITUTION has taken the matter in hand, and that its noble efforts are being seconded by other leading papers.

Never a More Worthy Movement.

From the Athens, Ga., Chronicle.

Hon. Henry W. Grady never started in all his useful life, a more worthy movement than that to build a confederate home in Georgia. He is right when he says Georgia will do her part and do it well. The younger people will not be behind in this matter, and will send in their subscriptions to swell the list. We feel confident that the people of the state will lend their every effort to the furthering of this movement, and in this respect we can safely assert the people of Athens will not be behind the others. From the mountains of northeast Georgia went some of the south's bravest men to fight the battle for their rights, and in the movement to support our old veterans, wearing the honorable scars of war, and disabled in the service of their country, the people who cherish the memories of their illustrious dead will not be lost nor those who keep ever green in their memory the glorious record of a Thomas R. R. Cobb.

From the Sandersville, Ga., Progress.

Rising immeasurably above all other grand works accomplished by THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION for the people of Georgia, is the scheme put upon foot by that journal in last Saturday's issue, for the building of a confederate veterans' home. In Sunday's issue the announcement is made that the subscriptions in Atlanta for the twenty-four hours exceeded $10,000, yesterday's issue announced that over $12,000 had been subscribed and it is hoped that enthusiastic responses from every city and town of Georgia, "the rich giving from their bounty and the poor from their poverty," will raise the necessary amount, suggested by THE CONSTITUTION to be $30,000, within a few weeks.

An Honor to Subscribe.

From the Screven County, Ga., Watchman.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION has commenced a noble work in raising a subscription to build a confederate home in Georgia, where poor and helpless old soldiers who fought for the cause we loved and lost will be given a home and plenty.

Screven county ought to help in this glorious work. It is an honor to subscribe to such an undertaking. It will be a blessing to the man who gives—even as it blesses those who receive. We may and doubtless have men in our midst who will enjoy the benefits of the home. Even if this were not so shall we not take care of those now old and helpless who fought so well for the cause we still hold dear in the day of their splendid and dauntless manhood.

The Watchman will take pleasure in receiving and acknowledging subscriptions and in sending the money on to THE CONSTITUTION to aid in this great and good work.

Confederate and Union Veterans.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has a very feeble article on the subject of the confederate soldiers' home recently proposed by THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. The Inter Ocean argues at length to show that the United States government should not provide for the disabled confederate veterans. This argument is altogether superfluous and unnecessary. We are not asking aid and have never asked it.

When the I. O. comes to the discussion of pensions to union soldiers and the northern contributions to the Stewart fund that we object to its remarks. The I. O. speaks of this magnificent gift of $1,500!

Just think of it—the people of the north gave a sum equal to one three-hundredth portion of a cent for each inhabitant to the needy confederate veterans. Its forty-five million people and its five thousand millionaires gave as much as one southern newspaper. But then, says the I. O., they "nearly all gave their sympathy," and "the republican press spoke kindly of Major Stewart's project."

Look at the other side of the matter. The south, from its poverty, desolated and ravaged by war, has been giving, as its share of the national pension contribution, some $80,000,000 a year. The poorest section of the country, it has already given over $2,000,000,000 in pensions to the soldiers who participated it, and successive congresses continue to increase these pensions and this taxation to reward the veterans.

The south is asking nothing; it should have asked nothing. But we have a right to protest against further burdens for pensions. We are advised by the Inter Ocean to care for our own soldiers, and we are doing so, we are ordered by congress to pay our full share of the pensions to the union veterans, and we do so. And now we are told that it is the policy of the new administration to still further increase these pensions to pay, indeed, an annuity to every man of the millions who fought in the union armies. It is against these further taxes that we protest. We do not believe that the sympathy which the Inter Ocean expresses will be compensation for the burden already placed on us, and the greater burden it is proposed to place. If Major Stewart's mission north will but call attention to the injustice of the pension legislation, it will have done good service, despite his failure. Again we say, the south, poor as she is, can and will care for its veterans. Let the rich north do likewise, and place no greater tax on us to support its veterans than it has already done.

The First Mississippi Subscriber.

We take pleasure in reproducing the following from the New Orleans Times-Democrat, concerning Captain Johnson:

Captain C. A. Johnston, a gallant ex-confederate officer of Columbus, Miss., has nobly responded to the appeal of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION for assistance to establish a state home for confederate soldiers in Georgia, by sending to Mr. Henry W. Grady a contribution from himself individually of $50. This generosity is proportioned to the high cause which called it forth. In time citizens of all the southern states will recognize that it is their duty to pension and provide for southern soldiers in need of assistance. Since the progressive development of this section, it is better able to care for its needy and disabled veterans than it was when it emerged from the ravages of war and reconstruction. The new south should truly be able to keep its old soldiers free from want and in comparative comfort.

The Ladies Should Organize at Once.

Major Newman, of Washington county, in a letter to the Sandersville Progress says:

Mr. Grady's ringing editorials in last Saturday's and Sunday's issues of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION on the subject of a home for disabled confederate soldiers, are an honor to Georgia journalism and more especially to the noble heart which inspired them. They bear the ring of pure metal with them as is evidenced by the generous response which they have already evoked in the short space of twenty-four hours, during which $10,000 were subscribed. In my humble opinion as far as immediate results are concerned these eloquent editorials are sup rior to Mr. Grady's eloquent speech on the new south delivered by him two years ago before the New England society in New York.

Now, as the already too long delayed good work has begun, I would suggest that the people of Georgia, through their Ladies' Memorial associations throughout the state organize themselves into aid societies on next Memorial Day for the erection and endowment of the home to be established in Atlanta. Let the management of these societies secure such co-operation on the part of energetic citizens as they may require, and the success of the home will be assured.

Duty Demands the Movement.

From the Covington, Ga., Enterprise.

The patriotic ATLANTA CONSTITUTION is in a fair way to have a home established in Georgia for ex-confederate soldiers who are unable to support themselves. Generous hearted men and women are making liberal contributions to this most benevolent and worthy object. The home will doubtless be built by individual contributions and supported by donations from private sources. However, if THE CONSTITUTION secures the erection of this home the great state of Georgia should step to the front and provide for the support and comfort of its inmates. Duty demands that the disabled veterans of the "Lost Cause" be provided for whenever and wherever they are in needy or dependent circumstances.

None of the Veterans Should be Neglected.

From the Greenesboro, Ga., Herald.

Georgia should see to it that none of the veterans who were true to her in the days of strife are neglected or come to want as old age creeps upon them.

It is a Noble Cause.

From the Rockdale, Ga., Banner.

THE CONSTITUTION has espoused a noble cause, one that appeals directly to the best impulses of our people, and is pressing it forward with tireless enthusiasm—the erection of a "Georgia confederate home." The very cause is both dear and sacred. It should thrill every Georgian with patriotic pride. The veterans did their whole duty when called upon to rally in defense of their country's honor and the pittance now asked of the people should be generous and spontaneous, thus levying perpetual honor upon the gallant ones who survived the fury of the dreadful fray. Brethren of the press and fellow citizens, what you do, do right away. The time is short. One by one the heroes are being g to build a confederate home in Georgia. He is right when he says Georgia will do her part and do it well. The younger people will not be behind in this matter, and will send in their subscriptions to swell the list. We feel confident that the people of the state will lend their every effort to the furtherance of this movement, and in this respect we can safely assert the people of Athens will not be behind the others. From the mountains of northeast Georgia went some of the south's bravest men to fight the battle for their rights, and in the movement to support one old veteran, wearing the honorable scars of war, and disabled in the service of their country, the people who cherish the memories of their illustrious dead will not be lost nor those who keep ever green in their memory the glorious record of a Thomas R. R. Cobb.

From the Sandersville, Ga., Progress.

Rising immeasurably above all other grand works accomplished by THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION for the people of Georgia, is the scheme put upon foot by that journal in last Saturday's issue, for the building of a confederate veterans' home. In Sunday's issue the announcement is made that the subscriptions in Atlanta for the twenty-four hours exceeded $10,000; yesterday's issue announced that over $12,000 had been subscribed and it is hoped that enthusiastic responses from every city and town of Georgia, "the rich giving from their bounty and the poor from their poverty," will raise the necessary amount, suggested by THE CONSTITUTION to be $50,000, within a few weeks.

An Honor to Subscribe.

From the Screven County, Ga., Watchman.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION has commenced a noble work in raising a subscription to build a confederate home in Georgia, where poor and helpless old soldiers who fought for the cause we loved and lost will be given a home and plenty. Every one in every county ought to help in this glorious work. It is an honor to subscribe to such an undertaking. It will be a blessing to the man who gives—even as it blesses those who receive. We hope and doubtless he is men in our midst who will enjoy the benefit of the home. Even if this were not so shall we not take care of those now old and helpless who fought so well for the cause we still hold dear in the day of their splendid and dauntless manhood.

The Watchman will take pleasure in receiving and acknowledging subscriptions and in sending the money on to THE CONSTITUTION to aid in this great and good work.

Confederate and Union Veterans.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has a very feeble article on the subject of the confederate soldiers' home recently proposed by THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. The Inter Ocean argues at length to show that the United States government should not provide for the disabled confederate veterans. This argument is altogether superfluous and unnecessary. We are not seeking aid and have not asked it.

When the I. O. comes to the discussion of pensions to union soldiers and the northern contributions to the Stewart fund that we object to its remarks. The Inter Ocean speaks of this magnificent gift of $1,500.

Just think of it—the people of the north gave a sum equal to one three-hundredth portion of a cent per capita inhabitant to the needy confederate veterans. Its forty-five million people and its five thousand millionaires gave as much as one southern sympathizer. But then, says the I. O., they "nearly all gave their sympathy," and "the republican press spoke kindly of Major Stewart's project."

Look at the other side of the matter. The south, from its poverty, desolated and ravaged by war, has been paying to the extent of the national pension list, during the last seven years, $30,000,000 a year. The poorest section of the country, it has already given over $400,000,000 in pensions to the soldiers who subjugated it, and successive congresses continue to increase these pensions and this taxation to reward the veterans.

The south is asking nothing; it should have asked nothing. But we have a right to protest against further burdens for pensions. We are advised by the Inter Ocean to care for our own soldiers, and we are doing so, we are relieved by congress to pay our full share of the pensions to the union veterans, and we do so. And now we are told that it is the policy of the new administration to still further increase these pensions, to pay, indeed, an annuity to every one of the soldiers who fought in the union armies. Who will not be touched by this noble appeal? Who will arm himself against an enterprise that bespeaks such undimmed glory to our state and people? None. Nothing we dare say, would more fully express the cherished wish of true Georgians than a home for her veterans. So forward your subscriptions, feeling that though it possibly may be small, nevertheless it may be the link that binds the chain in one harmonious whole.

A Home for the Brave.

From the Walker County, Ga., Messenger.

THE CONSTITUTION has done a gracious act in taking steps to secure a Georgia home for confederates. It leads off with a subscription of $1,000 and has given the enterprise its hearty support.

In Full Sympathy With the Move.

From the Americus, Ga., Republican.

It is with pride and pleasure that we can say we are in full sympathy with the move to give the veterans of Georgia a home within our own borders. This is not a new idea in the hearts of our people, for many of us have long since expressed an earnest desire that some plan should be inaugurated to provide for our aged and maimed soldiers. Thanks to THE CONSTITUTION for putting the ball in motion, and may it continue to roll at the same rate (as in the first day of its motion until the $50,000 shall have been subscribed and the good work begun.

Would Be a Monument of Gratitude.

From the Brunswick, Ga., Advertiser.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION has set us a noble example in starting the ball in motion that will build a confederate veterans' home in Georgia—a retreat where the survivors of the war, who are unable to take care of themselves, and have no one to whom they can turn for help, can rest their weary limbs until they shall be laid away to rest in the grave. Such an institution, built by the people and maintained by the state, would be a credit to our people and a monument to their gratitude.

Always the Case When Georgia Is at Stake.

From the Milledgeville, Ga., Chronicle.

THE CONSTITUTION is putting in its hardest licks for the confederate veterans home, and no doubt only a short space of time will intervene between THE CONSTITUTION'S proposal to build the home and their announcement that it is completed.

The Grand Army Men Contribute.

From the Macon, Ga., Telegraph.

Last night the E. S. Jones post, Grand Army of the Republic, of this city voted a contribution of $25 to the fund for the confederate veterans' home in Georgia. Mr. W. W. DeHaven, one of the leading members of this post, some days ago wrote an eloquent appeal for the noble men against whom he had borne arms in that great struggle which tested American manhood on both sides of the Potomac. This action of the grand army men in Macon was a spontaneous expression of a noble sentiment which will be appreciated by the comrades and friends of the men who wore the gray. It is the first contribution from Macon to a noble purpose. We are confident that it will be followed by many others.

Wilkes County Will be Heard From.

From the Washington, Ga., Chronicle.

The movement started by THE CONSTITUTION to build a home for Georgia veterans has met an enthusiastic and ready response from people in all portions of the state. Shall not Wilkes county have some bricks in this building? Let Wilkes county add her pro rata, be that small or great, to the fund. Let us demonstrate to the world that the services of our veterans will forever be appreciated and never forgotten.

The Right Thing Exactly.

From the Cartersville, Ga., Courant.

For ten years we have been urging the people of Georgia to do more for our confederate veterans, and we are greatly delighted at the movement recently inaugurated to establish a home for needy old soldiers. It is the right thing exactly, and THE CONSTITUTION struck a popular chord when it began the agitation of this noble enterprise.

The News in Walton.

From the Walton, Ga., News.

A movement has been started by Mr. Henry W. Grady to build a Georgia home for ex-confederates. Last Saturday THE CONSTITUTION opened a subscription list, and up to date $19,000 in private subscription have been sent in.

Cannot Walton county make up a subscription and send to swell the contributions that are pouring in from all parts of our state?

Wants North Carolina to Move.

From the Asheville Citizen.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, in an eloquent editorial calling upon Colonel Stewart to come back home, has struck the right chord, giving timely utterance to a feeling which was entertained by many who were restrained from speaking merely by the reflection that it was none of their business. But THE CONSTITUTION has justified its boldness by calling on the people of Georgia to build a confederate home for themselves. The first day brought a response of $12,000.

Here is an example for the people of North Carolina. Our legislature has pensioned our disabled veterans, but the pensions are far from sufficient to keep some wasted by diseases contracted during the war from the hardships of abject poverty. The convention of disabled pensioners assembled in Raleigh last January authorized W. H. Hamilton at Auburn, Wake county, and J. H. Wheeler, of Wadesboro, Anson county, to take the matter in hand and call upon the people to make a home for these helpless veterans. These gentlemen have issued the call and wait the response. Let it not be said that they wait in vain.

In the Right Direction.

From the Washington, Ga., Chronicle,

The movement of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION to build a home for confederate veterans is one in the right direction. Georgians should by all means build a home for Georgia veterans. They are able to do so and we believe will do so. An excellent suggestion of THE CONSTITUTION'S is that there shall be no begging for this purpose. The contributions will be voluntary and unsolicited.

HE WANTS A CHANCE

TO PAY A FINE AND NOT GO TO THE CHAINGANG.

Eugene Pacetti's Friends Asking the Governor to Commute His Chaingang Sentence to the Privilege of Paying a Fine.

Eugene Pacetti, who was convicted of keeping a gaming house and sentenced to the chain gang for twelve months without the alternative of paying a fine, has a showing for his liberty.

An appeal will be sent in to Governor Gordon.

The Pacetti case has become almost a chapter in the criminal history of Georgia. One year ago he was arrested one night by Captain Couch. In his room were found cards, chips and other paraphernalia of a gambling den. But when Pacetti found the officers at the door he made no attempt to conceal the material, and when questioned about it said that it was his and that he was in his private bedroom.

Later he was indicted and tried for the offense. Judge Van Epps, in passing sentence upon him, gave him fifteen months upon the public works, without the alternative of a fine. Pacetti appealed the case and gave bond. Then during that time he left the city, going to Macon and afterwards to Savannah. During his abscence the supreme court rendered its decision which was a confirmation of the sentence below. Some of Pacetti's friends wired him the decision, immediately after it was rendered, and he at once left for the east.

Immediately after the decision was rendered, telegrams were sent to Savannah asking for Pacetti's arrest, but they were received after his departure. Then Solicitor O'Bryan telegraphed to Baltimore, Washington, New York and Philadelphia, asking for the fugitive's arrest. The message to Baltimore intercepted Pacetti, and he was jailed in that city. His friends in Atlanta, Savannah and Macon, as well as relatives in Baltimore, came to his rescue, and a stubborn legal fight began. The writ of habeas corpus which Captain Crim secured in Baltimore was no good, and the case went, eventually, to the supreme court of the United States.

In the meantime, Pacetti remained in the Baltimore jail, each day becoming more weary of prison life. A few weeks ago, of his own accord, he abandoned the fight in the supreme court and asked to be brought back to Atlanta, saying:

"I will go home and make an effort to have the governor to commute my sentence from absolute imprisonment to the privilege of paying a fine. Then if I cannot pay that fine, I will go to the chaingang cheerfully."

Captain Crim was acquainted with Pacetti's decision and again left for Baltimore. Pacetti was happy to see the bailiff's familiar face, and came back with him, apparently very glad to do so. Of course he was taken to jail at once, and for a week past has been the daily companion of Coffee, Moore and others.

A few days ago his friends began working for a commutation of the sentence. A petition signed by the leading citizens of Savannah and Chatham county was perfected and sent to Atlanta. Another one equally as strong comes from Macon, while Atlanta presents one signed by her best citizens and indorsed by Judge Van Epps who passed sentence, and Solicitor O'Bryan, who prosecuted the prisoner. The Atlanta petition is also signed by all the officers about the courthouse.

These papers will all be presented to Governor Gordon this morning, with an urgent request that he grant the prayer contained therein. Pacetti has been in jail constantly since he was arrested in Baltimore last October, and as he promises never to touch a card again in Fulton county, his friends are sanguine of executive clemency.

A Jute Mill Outside of the Trust.

We print the following with great pleasure. We are glad to see that there is one mill in the country brave enough to fight the outrageous trust that seeks to plunder our people. Let every farmer in the country write the name of the Ludlow mills in his book, and if he is compelled to buy jute bagging, give this mill the preference. It did fight the trust last year and we have the written pledge of its agent that it will fight it again this year. Read what he says:

OFFICE OF THE LUDLOW MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 284 Devonshire street, Boston, April 9, 1889. Editors Constitution, Atlanta, Ga., Dear Sirs: A friend has kindly sent me your issue of April 4th, referring particularly to the jute bagging trust.

We take special exemption to the following, apparently copied from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat:

"How about the Boston mill, which last season locked horns with the trust?"

"It is running, but under an agreement that it will not take the initiative, as it did then, in putting its product on the market. It will sort of lay back and meet competition. It is a large mill, with a capacity of 6,000,000 to 7,000,000 yards a year. Last year it was under no agreement whatever."

This mill is not in sympathy or acting in concert with any trust, pool, combination or association, or any agents or representatives of any such organization; or acting under any agreement relating to the manufacture, sale or distribution of bagging; neither were we last year, nor do we intend to be in future; we have an ample supply of raw material, purchased before the late corner in jute butts was formed, and are, as heretofore, the only mill of considerable size outside of the trust. Very respectfully,

LUDLOW MANUFACTURING COMPANY.
By C. U. Wallace, Selling Agent.

Put Out the Fire.

About eleven o'clock Thursday the wooden bridge at Rhodes street crossing, on the Central railroad, a small fire occurred and the wooden bridge was in flames when discovered. Mr. Rufus Fuller, of Worcester, Mass., saw the fire and put it out with gravel from near the end of the bridge.

IN SOCIETY'S DOMAIN.

SEVERAL ENTERTAINMENTS LAST NIGHT.

Miss Lindley's Class in Physical Culture at the Opera House—Musical Entertainment at Mrs. Lockhart's—Other Notes.

Miss Lindley's class in physical culture gave a most delightful entertainment for the benefit of the Exposition Mills mission, at DeGive's last night. The programme, which is given below, was good throughout, and the audience was kept busy applauding the maneuvers of the different classes:

Overture, Wurm's orchestra.
1. (a.) Dum-bell chorus, (b.) Run (in place), pink colors.
2. Wand drill, blue colors.
3. Indian clubs, pink colors.
4. Fisher's hornpipe, cherry colors.
5. (a.) Free gymnastics, pink colors; (b.) "Go to sleep;" (c.) stepping motions; (d.) postures; (e.) heel and toe recessional.
6. (a.) Postures in bayonet drill; (b.) exercise with poles, blue colors.

PART II.

Overture, Wurm's Orchestra.
1. Broadsword Fencing—Blue Colors.
2. (a) Indian Club Solo—Pink Colors—Ruble Hammond and Alice Starr.
(b.) Fencing—Winthrop Salter and Andrew Pittman.
(a.) Lock Step March—Girls—Led by Ada Alexander.
(b.) "Sack race—Boys—Tug of War—Three Legged Race. (c.) Jumping Shot Bag.
3. Indian Clubs—Cherry Colors.
4. Dumb-bell Chorus—Blue Colors, "P. C. March" composed by Sumner Salter.
5. Delsarte Freeing Motions and Postures—Normal Students.—Arranged by Bessie M. Wright.
6. (a.) Grand March—Cherry Colors. (b.) Run—School.

Especially cute was the Indian club solo, by Ittie Ruble Hammond. The club swinging by little Miss Alice Starr was also very good indeed, and reflects great credit on her teacher, Miss Lindley.

The broadsword fencing by the blue ribbons was an interesting and graceful feature of the entertainment and elicited rounds of applause. The part taken by the boys, and especially the fig of war, was exceedingly funny and was loudly applauded.

The house was comfortably filled, and the programme concluded with a grand march by the cherry ribbons, led by Miss Mattie Henderson, who showed great skill, leading the large class without making an error.

Altogether the entertainment was a great success and showed the careful training of a good teacher, who has started an enterprise that is more than worth the patronage it has received.

A most delightful musical entertainment was given last night at Mrs. R. M. Lockhart's residence, No. 86 Wheat street.

It was by Mrs. Lockhart's pupils.

The beautiful lawn in front of the residence was handsomely illuminated by Chinese lanterns and colored lights, while the parlors were aglow with gas jets. The feature of the entertainment was a contest for a gold medal. Six of Mrs. Lockhart's pupils essayed to capture the prize, which was one of exquisite beauty. They were: Miss Grace Crawford, Miss Leonora Hampton, Miss Lilly Cleveland, Miss May Cleveland and Miss Susie Norris. Without any exception every one delighted the large audience which was present. The playing of Miss Crawford, Miss Lilly Cleveland and Miss Leonora Hampton was especially good. The following programme was rendered:

"Pearl of the Orient" and "Nearer My God to Thee," by Miss Susie Norris.
Duet, "Love's Chidings," by Misses Lillie and May Cleveland.
"The Mocking Bird," by Miss May Cleveland.
Duet, by Misses Susie Norris and Berta Lockhart.
"May Bell's Peal" and "Remember Me," by Miss Lillie Cleveland.
"Danube River" and "Fairy Festival," by Miss Grace Crawford.
"Grant's March" and "Dixie," by Leonora Hampton.

The judges, Miss Lil'a Howell, Miss Amelia Burkett and Mr. Richard Lockhart, after considerable discussion, awarded the medal to Miss Crawford, and the little lady received it amid applause. Miss Cleveland and Miss Hampton, however, came in for a kind word from the judges.

Messrs. R. M. and R. H. Lockhart and others assisted with the flute and guitar in making the entertainment a most delightful one to all present.

The Yale Apollo Glee and Banjo club will give a grand concert at DeGive's, April 24. There will be only three concerts given in the south—one each in Charleston, Savannah and Atlanta.

Fifteen men will participate in the glee and ten in the banjo concert, and the selections will be of the most popular college airs; and all who attend may expect a delightful entertainment.

Miss Falk, of Savannah, is the guest of Mrs. J. M. Alexander, on Peachtree street.

In the window of Freeman & Crankshaw's jewelry store there is a flower which has attracted great attention. It is a calla lily with two flowers growing from the same stem. There is one full flower and another about two-thirds full growing together.

AN EXCELLENT WORK.

A Sketch of the Home for the Friendless and What It Has Done.

The recent entertainment for the benefit of the home for the friendless has created considerable interest in that institution.

What is it, and where?

The charter was received and the home was organized November 15th last. A pleasant and commodious cottage was secured without delay at No. 153, Mangum street, and immediate steps were taken for the relief of a large class of worthy unfortunates who were sorely in need of it.

During the period of less than five months that it has been in operation, a remarkable amount of permanent good has been accomplished. Eight children have been adopted into good homes, and situations have been found for a great many women and children. A nursery has also been established, where a large class of little ones are cared for in order to allow the mothers to earn an honest livelihood. The youngest of these receive instruction at the home on the kindergarten plan, while the older ones are sent to the public schools.

The work which has already been accomplished is greater and more far-reaching in its effects than even the most sanguine anticipated, and the noble women who have so unselfishly devoted their earnest energies and means to the work, are strengthened and encouraged in the highest degree to strive steadfastly to make the institution one of more extended usefulness in the near future. While entirely undenominational in character, the moral atmosphere is such as to leave a marked impress for good upon all who come under its influences. Those of Atlanta's business men who have examined into every detail of the management, have expressed themselves in the highest terms regarding its economy and system and the fine executive ability of those having control.

The demands for expenses have been amply met by generous contributions from the public and a monthly allowance from the city. The ladies who are the most actively engaged in the work earnestly request the public to call at the home and see what is being accomplished. Their unselfish and earnest devotion to this good cause is certainly worthy of all the encouragement that can be given those interested in it. One of Atlanta's most prominent business men has generously offered them the gift of an eligible lot as soon as enough money may be raised for the erecting of a suitable building, and it is confidently anticipated that the organization will have a veritable home of its own in the near future.

LET'S CLOSE IT UP TONIGHT!

DR. AUSTIN FLINT, late professor in Bellevue Hospital Medical College, Fellow of New York Academy of Medicine, member of the state medical societies of New York, Virginia, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, etc., says in speaking of Bright's disease, or advanced kidney disease: "The minor effects are headache, loss of vision, impaired hearing, involuntary muscular twitching, cramps, drowsiness, vomiting and diarrhœa." These are but some of the common symptoms of this malady, which accounts for Warner's Safe Cure curing so many diseases (so-called) which are not diseases, but are symptoms of advanced kidney disorders.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

SEVERAL ATLANTA GENTLEMEN ARE ELECTED OFFICERS.

Georgia Lodge Bears the Bander—Red Men Play Havoc With the Pale Faces—Notes About Other Secret Societies.

The state grand lodge of Knights of Honor, met in annual convention at Fort Valley, Thursday.

Encouraging reports were handed in from all sections of the state, and the representation was unusually large.

The order seems to be on a regular boom in Georgia, and Atlanta lodges, especially, seem to have made remarkable progress during the last twelve months.

At the election of officers, the following were selected: Mr. S. R. Johnson, of Atlanta, grand dictator; Mr. C. E. McGregor, of Warrenton, vice grand dictator; Mr. Heidt, of Jonesboro, assistant dictator; Mr. Edward Elder, of Barnesville, grand reporter; Mr. R. H. Jones, of Cartersville, grand treasurer; Rev. Mr. Jones, of LaGrange, grand chaplain; Mr. J. J. Printup, of Rome, grand guide; Mr. T. H. Shockley, of Marietta, grand guardian; Mr. Jud Crabb, of Cedartown, grand sentinel.

The trustees were Dr. W. G. Browne, of Atlanta; Colonel Newt Tumlin, of Cave Spring, and Mr. W. T. Kinsey, of Jonesboro.

Retiring Grand Dictator John F. Shannon was made delegate to the supreme grand lodge at Washington.

Dr. W. G. Browne, who was a delegate from Atlanta, says:

"It was a grand meeting. The increase in the state grand lodge was considerable, but the most phenomenal thing was the large increase in Georgia lodge, which is the 1st lodge in Georgia. From this lodge the report was 112 initiations during the year, with twenty-five who have applied for membership. The lodge has now a membership of 300, with a fine prospect of reaching 400 by this time next year."

"How was this accomplished, doctor?"

"By good honest, hard work. The reward of two dollars offered by the grand lodge for each new member stimulated them, and the gold beaded cane offered by our lodge to the member bringing in the largest number was another inducement. We also put in for the $500 prize offered by the grand lodge to the lodge sending in the largest individual prize."

Last night, at the meeting of Georgia lodge, twenty-five new members were initiated, and seven applications were sent in from those wishing to become members.

RED MEN.

Monday evening Senior Sagamore, E. W. Blue, got in some of the finest work ever witnessed in the southern hunting grounds, at the sleep of the Chercokee lodge. Seven pale faces were adopted, and the occasion was made very interesting to the Red Men.

Mohawk tribe adopted three pale faces at Tuesday night's sleep, and the savages had a very long time round the camp fire.

Comanche tribe held a sleep Thursday night at which several pale faces were adopted. There were a number of degrees conferred. Comanche tribe has grown from a mere quorum to a membership of over one hundred members in one year. In point of numbers this lodge carries the banner in the state.

The work of the building and loan committee is almost completed, and Monday evening the committee will meet at the office of Mr. John Slaton, who is a young warrior, and finish the details of the work. A charter will then be applied for, and new members are availing themselves of this opportunity to join the Red Men.

FREE MASONS.

Monday evening, at the meeting of the Knights Templar, the grand commander will be present, and the occasion will be one of great interest to the fraternity.

All the lodges are doing well. Thursday night Atlanta lodge held a very interesting meeting, and masonry is evidently on the increase in Atlanta.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The Knights of Pythias will have a big drill at the Gate City Guards armory tonight. The uniformed rank is making strenuous efforts to excel at the drill, which comes off at the Grand Lodge convention in Augusta May 14. The different lodges in Atlanta are all doing well, and increasing in number at every meeting.

A DIFFERENCE BETWEEN PARTNERS.

Mr. R. L. Reaves and the Charge Against Him—His Side of the Case.

Mr. R. L. Reaves, of Athens, the account of whose arrest was published in yesterday's CONSTITUTION, waived preliminary examination yesterday before Judge Pat Owens. His bond was fixed at $1,000 and this was readily given, Mr. Joseph Thompson becoming his security.

The bond obligates Mr. Reaves to appear at the next term of the superior court in Floyd county on the 23d of September next. The warrant was sworn out by Mr. H. S. Lynch.

Mr. Reaves claims that the whole trouble grows out of a controversy between two partners over a horse in which both were interested, and that, therefore, there is absolutely nothing in this case. They say that Mr. Reaves and Mr. Lynch bought a horse some time ago for about $400. It has since developed into a very fast one, and Lynch and Reaves disagree as to the division of the ownership.

They say that Mr. Reaves is sure to be on hand for the trial of his case with witnesses to establish his innocence of anything at all criminal.

His House Was Burglarized.

Yesterday afternoon a burglar entered the residence of a negro named General Freeman, near the corner of Fort street and Forest avenue, and took off a few dollars in silver and a lot of clothing.

"An' not only dat," said Freeman, last night, "but dey tuk'n tuk off all de eggs w'at de ole hen was settin' on under de house."

"You must have some enemies," suggested a patrolman.

"Dat's hit, sho'," warmly. "Dat's his. I's been after dem chicken thieves on de hill. Dat's hit. Jes sho' as us er nigger gets after chicken thieves jes so is de other niggers gwineter git down on him.

For Beating His Wife.

A negro named Golden Peek was arrested by Patrolmen Abbott and Christophine last night for wife beating. When the patrolman reached the darky's house, corner or Mangum and Newton streets, they found the woman badly beat up, and in all probability the case would have been more serious still had they not arrived, as Peek was still beating her.

It Was a Desperate Fight.

Patrolmen Bethea and Paul had a desperate fight last night on Thompson's alley, leading from Fort street, with a negro named George Evans.

Evans's time in the chaingang was up yesterday, and the darky celebrated his home coming by beating his wife and throwing the furniture outdoors. The matter was reported to the police and the two petrolmen went to arrest him. As they entered the door the negro made for Paul, who was in front. The room was nearly dark and the negro had made two cuts with a knife before the patrolman understood his situation clearly. The negro was knocked down two or three times with a club, but managed finally to escape. Both patrolmen fired at him as he ran off, but it is believed that none of the shots struck him. Both cuts with the knife grazed Patrolman Paul's coat front, but neither of the policemen were hurt.

Escaped From the Almshouse.

A negro woman named Maude Hill escaped from the almshouse chaingang yesterday.

She is quite black, weighs about 140 pounds, and is 28 or 30 years of age.

A reward of $10 is offered for her by Overseer W. A. Terry.

LOOK TO THE CHILDREN.

Nothing is so necessary to the health of the child as keeping its blood pure. Nature should be assisted in this by using a harmless vegetable remedy like Swift's Specific.

My little niece had white swelling to such an extent that she was confined to the bed for a long time. More than twenty pieces of bone came out of her leg, and the doctors said amputation was the only remedy to save her life. I refused the operation and put her on S. S. S., and she is now up and active and in as good health as any child.

Columbus, Ga., Feb. 11, '89. ANNIE GRESLING.

My little son, five years old, was afflicted with a disease for which the doctors had no name. The nails came off his fingers, and the fingers came off his hands up to the middle joint. For three years he has suffered dreadfully, and has taken quantities of medicine. He is now getting well under treatment of Swift's Specific. JOHN DEBIL.

Peru, Ind., Jan. 12, 1889.

Last year my little boy John had a breaking out with sores all over his body, which was painful and troublesome. After using other remedies for several months, while the sores grew worse, I was induced to give him Swift's Specific. He began to improve at once, and after taking three bottles the eruption was gone, and the child was altogether healed.

Albany, Ga., Sept. 20, 1888. J. F. COCK.

Rev. L. B. Payne, in charge of the Orphan's Home at Macon, Ga., says he has been using S. S. S. with the children in the institution for nine or ten years with the best results. Many cases of hereditary taint have been entirely cured, and the little ones made sound and hearty.

My little boy broke out with sores and ulcers, the result of the saliva from a calf coming in contact with a cut finger. The ulcers were deep and painful and showed no inclination to heal, I gave him Swift's Specific, and he is now well.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The stock market was quiet but feverish and irregular throughout, and prices made no material progress in either direction, final changes in all active shares being for fractional amounts only. London prices came lower this morning and foreign houses evinced a desire to sell some of the stocks bought so liberally during the past few days. Lower quotations from London were supplemented by bearish advices from Chicago, but the market showed the most determined resistance to the efforts to get it down. The market opened with a spurt of activity, but this soon died away, and it was for the most part quiet to dull, with short periods of animation throughout the day. First prices showed declines from last evening's figures extending to ¼ per cent, but these losses were further increased by small fractional declines in the early dealings. Fluctuations, however, were entirely insignificant until after 11 o'clock, when the buying movement set in, which largely increased the amount of business done and advanced quotations all over the list, with grangers leading. This was followed by dullness, which lasted until toward 2 p. m., when the list got a sagging tendency, and pressure being brought upon Atchison considerable of a decline was brought about. Buying began again before the close and the market closed quiet and firm, at irregular changes for the day. Several of the specialties made marked movements during the day and Memphis and Charleston was very prominent, scoring a final gain of 2¼ per cent, and was followed by Pittsburg and Western and Colorado Coal. In the unlisted department Sugar Trusts made a further advance at first but became feverish and finally lost all of its improvement. The decision of Judge Wallace that overhead wires must come down caused some movement in Western Union and Manhattan, but finally changes in those shares are insignificant. Total sales 279,000 shares.

NEW YORK, April 12.—[Special.]—Henry Clews & Co.'s cotton circular on the market today says: The fall movement in cotton, which has been a long time coming, but which was fairly started at the end of last week and fully developed with the beginning of this week's business, has continued without abatement, and at this time we find the situation quite the reverse of what it was on the day of our last weekly review. At that time there was a speculative party of operators of well known financial ability short of the market, their position being mainly prompted by the extreme dullness which had put cotton in a "rut," from which it was hard to drag it, and which they conceived would carry it lower. The statistical position was admittedly strong, and as it commenced to be felt earlier than these men expected it to be, they were not inclined to believe in the first indications of a healthy market, but tried to comfort themselves with the belief that the improvement was purely the result of manipulation. The continued strength and advance in spool, however, as well as the scarcity of good cotton, made the situation so grave to them that they almost, with one accord, changed their tactics, covered their shorts, and have been the largest buyers for long account. There is a great deal in the situation to encourage a belief in higher prices eventually. Spool is especially bullish, and one of the best arguments in favor of an advance in that market is the fact that a large proportion of their stock will not pass on contract, and there is already a scarcity of good cotton. While the opposite is the case with us, our large stock of low grades being a positive drag on the contract market, we are not likely to see a bull movement in Europe without a corresponding advance here. We are not inclined, however, at the movement to encourage much buying at these prices. In view of the sluggishness of the market for some months past, the advance of the past two weeks has been extraordinary, and it would seem the part of wisdom to accept the good profits that are in sight for the longs and reinvest on a reaction. Some good turns may even be made by selling short, but we would advise moderate profits on this side. It looks like we are approaching a season of activity that offers great opportunity to the quick operator. There has been free realizing today, the advance in spool this morning of 3-64 to 5-64, and the improvement in our market, making it a favorable opportunity to take profits, which the longs have embraced. Though the buying has been good, the selling orders have exceeded the demand, and the result was a decline of six to nine points from the highest prices reached today. Though a partial recovery in the early months near the close brought the quotations for this crop up to last night's prices, the next crop shows a loss of six to seven points.

HENRY CLEWS & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—[Special.]—Glenny & Violett, in their cotton circular, say: Realizing by longs in Liverpool and New York caused a decline in both markets. The interior receipts for the week are smaller than expected and shipments very large, and there is another considerable reduction of stock, and the aggregate stocks at ports and interior towns tonight are 225,000 less than last year, while Liverpool has only 25,000 more American on hand and afloat than last year. Nearly all important spot markets are 1-16 to ⅛ higher today, indicating that there is a general scarcity of actual cotton spots here. Quiet and firm sales, 1,400 bales; middling 10⅛. We should have said in our circular yesterday that consumption of the world was 190,000 weekly, instead of making it consumption of Great Britain.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 12.—There was good trading in wheat during most of the session, principally for July delivery. The feeling was somewhat unsettled, and the course of various futures was somewhat irregular. May, for instance, advanced 3¼, broke off 3, and closed 1½ higher than yesterday. Not much interest was manifested in May and little attention was given that month, consequently light trading either buying or selling, caused wide fluctuations. For June prices advanced 3¼, declined 2¾, and closed about 1½ higher than yesterday. July opened ¼@¾ lower, advanced ¾, and then for a while fluctuated with a moderate range until after 11 o'clock, when the market broke off about 2½, reacted some, and closed 1¼ lower than yesterday.

A fair business was transacted in corn early in the session, after which the market became quiet and inactive. The feeling developed was steady, the opening sales being at yesterday's closing prices, and under a fair local demand the market advanced ¾. The demand was soon satisfied, however, and the market reacted to inside figures, and the final quotations were about the same as yesterday.

Oats were weak and lower. The opening was at yesterday's close to ⅛ lower, with a downward tendency. Prices for May declined 1¼, rallied slightly, but closed steady at nearly inside figures. The fluctuations in June and July were small and the feeling steady.

An unsettled feeling prevailed in hog products and prices fluctuated frequently within a small range. At the opening the market was stronger, owing to a steady hog market and increased orders to purchase on behalf of outside parties. Prices were slightly advanced on leading articles. Rather free offerings, however, caused a weaker feeling, and prices declined again, but, soon rallied with fair buying by local shorts. The upward tendency was checked again and prices receded, but toward the close the feeling was steadier, and prices improved again slightly, the market closing at about medium figures.

The following was the range in the leading futures of Chicago today:

BALL TO BAT.

THE TEAM IS NOW ON ITS WAY TO ATLANTA.

Mr. Sawtell Objects to the Ball Grounds Being Placed Near Him, and New Ones Will Be Selected Unless He is Appeased—President Deas Will Go in the Field This Morning.

Atlanta's baseball team will reach the city next week and will commence working together at once.

Five of the team will be here tomorrow.

Manager Whalen left New Orleans yesterday with five players under contract and will arrive with them Sunday afternoon. In the quintette are two batteries, one of the pitchers being especially fine.

The team will be a surprise to Atlanta and the league.

Before leaving New Orleans Manager Whalen telegraphed a half dozen players asking them to wire their terms to Atlanta. One answer was received by President Deas yesterday afternoon and it promises Atlanta a fine outfielder with a hard hitting record. The entire team will be signed within forty-eight hours after Manager Whalen reaches Atlanta, and will be upon the grounds and at work before this time next week.

A new obstacle was thrown in the way of the Atlanta club yesterday.

The new grounds are just south of Georgia avenue and west of Pryor street. Near by H. C. Sawtell owns some property, and yesterday he called upon Mayor Glenn, stating that the enclosure would shut up a street.

That street, however, has never been opened.

A street parallel with Georgia avenue was surveyed years ago and named Bass street, but it was a street on the city map only. Mr. Sawtell lives in that neighborhood, and is opposed to the ball grounds. On yesterday he called upon Mayor Glenn, declaring that the grounds would close Bass street. The mayor sent for the city engineer, who informed him that the street had never been opened, and that Mr. Sawtell himself had closed a portion of it with a fence. President Deas, when acquainted with the case, made an investigation and then said:

"If we can't get that lot we can get another. Mr. Patterson says that he will see that suitable grounds are provided for us."

"Can't you appease Mr. Sawtell?"

"He says that he will take an injunction if necessary. But I hope he will think better. We will have a team here next week, and the men will begin work next week. We will have good grounds even if Mr. Sawtell does not withdraw his objection. However, I hope he will think better of it."

TWO CONTESTS SETTLED.

Governor Gordon Decides in Favor of the Contestees.

Governor Gordon settled a couple of contested election cases yesterday.

Mr. J. M. Buckalem contested the election of Mr. J. J. Ragan, as ordinary of Calhoun county. The face of the returns showed a majority of 42 for Mr. Ragan, and Mr. Buckalem made the point that if all of the illegal votes were thrown out, Mr. Ragan would be thrown out too. But the evidence did not show enough clearly illegal votes to set aside the result and the commission was given to Mr. Ragan.

Governor Gordon says that both sides presented their claims with remarkable candor and fairness, and that he was greatly embarrassed in reaching a conclusion.

In the case of J. C. Brown vs. J. T. Westbrook for a justice of the peaceship, both claimed that the election was irregular and void. The governor declared the election null and void, and as this result creates no vacancy Mr. Westbrook will hold over under his commission until the next election.

WM. ROBERTS, M. When a man is ill he should call a doctor, but for a cold use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

WHEN THE MUCOUS SURFACES of the Bronchia are sore or inflamed, Dr. Jayne's Expectorant will afford prompt relief. For breaking up a Cold, or subduing a Cough, you will find in it a certain remedy.

A low condition of health is common with many who allow themselves to worry. Mental anguish causes bodily sufferings. Anxiety and care has broken down many constitutions. A train of disorders usually follow mental distress. Heart affections, nervousness, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney troubles, etc., are among the list. A sure remedy for relieving all mental and physical distress is Brown's Iron Bitters. It at once strengthens every part of the body, making work a pleasure and care unknown.

WHY don't you try Carter's Little Liver Pills? They are a positive cure for sick headache, and all the ills produced by disordered liver. Only one pill a dose.

THE action of Carter's Little Liver Pills is pleasant, mild and natural. They gently stimulate the liver, and regulate the bowels, but do not purge. They are sure to please. Try them.

SPRING LAMB.
First of the Season, at
ECHOLS & RICHARDS.
86 Peachtree St.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

A Meeting of the Benntell Manufacturing Company Tonight.

At four this afternoon, at room No. 4, Kimball house, there will be a meeting of those who have subscribed stock in the Benntell Manufacturing company, the charter of which has been published in THE CONSTITUTION.

These gentlemen give undeniable proofs that they can do as good work, and as cheaply, as any firm in the United States.

The company proposes to do stair building, hard wood trimmings, courthouse furnishings, book case fittings, files, records, and postoffice, railway and street car work as cheap as anybody.

They argue, with good reason, that work that is now being awarded to western firms and really done in Atlanta, can just as well be awarded to an Atlanta manufacturing company.

Their charter is ample guarantee of the stability of the concern, and the names of men such as appear on their advertisement is sufficient to convince any man of the faith that Atlanta folks repose in home industries.

HAMILTON'S DIVORCE.

Charles E. Hamilton Brings Suit for Divorce.

Yesterday morning in superior court Charles E. Hamilton filed a bill for divorce from his wife, Lizzie Hamilton, whom he accuses of being guilty of adultery more than once.

He asserts that she has been unfaithful to him more than once, and he wants a divorce from her.

Mrs. Hamilton still wears the scar inflicted by her husband's razor, and the case against C. E. Hamilton of assault with intent to murder will probably come up this week.

Spring Medicine.

The necessity of a spring medicine is almost universally admitted. And the superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla for this purpose becomes more and more widely known every year. That power to purify the blood, and those elements of strength and health which the system craves, and to which it is so susceptible at this season, are possessed by this peculiar medicine in a pre-eminent degree. Scrofula, pimples, boils, or any humor, biliousness, dyspepsia, sick headache, catarrh, rheumatism, or any diseases or affections caused or promoted by impure blood or low state of the system, are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Try the peculiar medicine.

Reforms Need More Than a Day

To bring them about, and are always more complete and lasting when they proceed with steady regularity to a consummation. Few of the observant among us can have failed to notice that permanently healthful changes in the human system are not wrought by abrupt and violent means, and that those are the most salutary medicines which are progressive. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the chief of these. Dyspepsia, a disease of obstinate character, is obliterated by it.

Let Every Housekeeper Read It.

TO THE EDITORS CONSTITUTION—Gentlemen: For fifteen years I have watched you as a mother would watch her babe. I have seen you grow from the cradle to your present manhood, and proud am I of you, and especially so for the manly stand you have taken in trying to build up a home for the poor and disabled confederate soldiers. In looking over THE CONSTITUTION of the 10th and reading the correspondence from the different donors, I was forcibly struck by one written by that noble and generous-hearted gentleman, ex-Governor Bullock. The idea struck me that we could all do something for this grand cause. Now, why not every retail merchant in the city give the profits of one day's sales for this fund? Now, in order to set the ball in motion, I propose to give next Saturday, April 13th, and it is with the people of Atlanta to say what I shall donate to this fund. For every dollar I take in on April 13th I will give fifteen cents to the home of the confederate veterans. I hope that every housekeeper in Atlanta will come to my store on April 13th, that I may sell one thousand dollars' worth of groceries. Should I sell the above amount I will present to THE CONSTITUTION one hundred and fifty dollars for the fund. Now, I hope them other fellows will follow suit and this will be a very good way to see what groceryman in Atlanta does the best business. Them other fellows are all the time blowing that they do more business than Duffy. Now here is a chance for them to try their strength and popularity. In conclusion, I must respectfully ask every lady or gentleman in Atlanta or state of Georgia who has a dollar to spend for groceries on Saturday, April 13th, it is hoped they will spend the same with J. J. Duffy in order that he may lead the list of donors for this grand and noble cause. J. J. DUFFY,

THE FIRST PICNIC

OF THE SEASON—EVERYBODY ON THE QUI VIVE.

All Should Go, and With Filled Baskets. Indulge in Good Eating and Give Themselves Up to Pleasure.

In a few days the first picnic of the season will be announced officially, and all the children will be joyous in anticipation of the enjoyment in store for them. All those who intend going should provide themselves with well filled baskets, and great care should be taken in selecting such things as are enjoyed at a picnic. Few people would enjoy a Welch rabbit, or an oyster stew at a picnic; but show us, tell us who would not enjoy one of the fine little six and eight pounds country cured hams we have just received. We have some as small as four and a half pounds. They are close trimmed, and as sweet as a butter-nut, free from salt, and just the thing to boil for a picnic or broil, or boil for breakfast or a hasty meal; so come over and secure one of the sweetest country hams it has ever been your pleasure to eat. We also have small bottle pickles and loose pickles of all kinds for the picnic—(that will be announced officially,) not to speak of the boiled boned ham which we sell sliced for your sandwiches. We also have the finest selected, imported key sardines, easy to open at the picnic, and little jars of all kinds of sweetmeats and such like, just the thing to fill your basket with. Now, be sure you remember this, and when the picnic is announced come over to our store, fill your basket with any of the choice delicacies that suit your taste, and you will enjoy yourself the more. Every morning we receive, fresh from the garden, all kinds of fresh vegetables. We also receive fresh shipments direct, of fancy strawberries. We have just received our new crop olives in bulk, our new Swiss cheese, and a new invoice of Saratoga chips. We also have fancy onions, pickled in bulk as well as sweet pickled peaches. Our 35 cent Jersey butter still takes the lead. Our Fermentum still remains the best and quickest yeast on the market. It is new on the market, but has already won laurels for its qualities, and is here to stay. If you want a nice light, sweet loaf of bread—in two hours—use the new compressed yeast Fermentum. A lady well known justly terms it, "lightning yeast." Everybody come and get one of the little pig hams, country sugar cured. HOYT & THORN,

The Highest Mark!
From the first American newspaper, the Boston Publick Occurrences, of 1690, to the New York Herald, of 1889, what a mighty leap! But from the dark, unwholesome flour used by Washington at the first state dinners in 1789, to the "ELEGANT"
is a still more marvelous leap. And even "Elegant," since March 15, is better than ever before. Truly, progress moves at a constantly accelerated speed.
We have just returned from a trip to the mill making this wonderful flour. We were more than pleased. We found the millers, the mill, the wheat, everything, all that could be desired. The finest machinery in the world, the choicest wheat, rich and golden, the flour
Perfect and Pure.
To our question, "How have you kept Elegant in the lead so many years?" Ph. H. Postel, Sr., answered: "Sir, we have always pressed for the highest mark." No machine, however new, but goes when a better one is invented—never one—and $60,000 have thus been expended by this mill in the last three years. And we believe men more honest than the Postels never made flour. Their record is good, and their flour perfectly pure. No damaged wheat is ever ground in their mills. We claim that Elegant is the Best Flour Ever Sold in This Market.
It took the premium at the last World's Exposition in Loudon. It takes the premium everywhere. We have a whiter flour in stock for 38 cents less money, but it is not as good as Elegant. Elegant costs more than any flour in this market, but just try it. Weigh the bread and count the time, see if it isn't cheapest as well as the best. Very little profit in selling it, but insist on having it and you will get it. It is PURE.

am Happy to Say I am a Well Woman, as Have Gained 37 Pounds Since I Stopped Taking Morphine.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 16, 1888

DEAR SIR—With much pleasure I am happy to say I am a well woman today, and have gained 37 pounds since I stopped taking morphine. After taking the first dose of your medicine did not want any more morphine, and my friends who saw me a month before I started to taking your medicine do not know me. You have made me a well and hearty woman, and I hope God will bless you and that you may cure all afflicted, for when a woman gets into the habit she had as well be dead. When I left Cedar Keys and came here, and when your medicine gave out I was all right. I wanted to wait and see if I would remain so. Doctor, you can use my name if you wish. I was taking six grains morphine a day. Your obedient servant and sincere friend, JOSEY MARSHALL,

TWO IMPORTANT CASES

WHICH WERE DECIDED IN THE SUPREME COURT YESTERDAY.

A $1,200 Case Goes Against Colonel Marcellus Thornton Because He Failed to Answer a Summons of Garnishment—Courts Have Power to Appoint Physicians to Examine Plaintiffs in Personal Injury Suits.

A decision rendered by the supreme court yesterday will cost Colonel Marcellus Thornton about $1,200 for failure to answer a summons of garnishment.

The case teaches an interesting and wholesome lesson.

Some time ago Mr. Thornton, who lives in Kentucky, came to Atlanta to testify in his case against Mr. John L. Conley in the superior court.

The American Writing Machine company had gotten judgment for about $1,000 against one Tewksbury, an ex-agent of the company, and Mr. Thornton, who it is said owed Tewksbury a small sum of money, was served with a summons of garnishment requiring him to tell how much he owed Tewksbury. Thornton failed to answer the summons of garnishment and judgment was entered up against him for the full amount of the judgment held by the Writing Machine company against Tewksbury.

He tried to have this judgement set aside on the grounds that he was a non-resident at the time the summons was served and the judgment taken—and was here simply as a witness and was therefore privileged from service in other cases.

The supreme court decided that the judgment against Thornton was regular, and the supreme court has affirmed the judgment of the court below.

Judge Simmons delivered the opinion, holding that Thornton's claim of exemption was made too late, that he ignored the process of the court until after judgment had been gotten against him.

The Childress Case.

The supreme court rendered an interesting decision in the case of the Richmond and Danville road against Childress.

Childress got a verdict for $3,500 in the court below against the road for injuries to his chest. At the trial the company asked the court to appoint a committee of doctors to examine the plaintiff's chest with a view to ascertaining the nature and extent of the alleged injuries, the expense to be defrayed by the company.

Childress objected to the examination, and the court sustained the objection on the ground that he was exempt from examination against his will.

The supreme court reversed this judgment, holding that, in furtherance of justice, the court can control the conduct of all persons connected with a judicial proceeding before it, in all matters pertaining thereto—that the cause of justice would be subserved by such an examination—that the weight of modern authority is favorable to the exercise of such power by the courts.

It was argued that this rule would work a hardship upon females, but the court say that they would be guarded by the discretion of the trial judge—that there would be no danger of examinations being needlessly ordered, or where an improper shock to modesty would result.

An Interesting Case Argued.

The case of the Georgia Improvement company vs. P. H. Snook was argued in the supreme court yesterday. The company sued Mr. Snook for a subscription of $250. Mr. Snook declined to pay it on the ground that the route of the road was changed after he made the subscription.

ABOUT PERSONS AND AFFAIRS.

A corner lot for five dollars! That's cheap real estate with a vengeance, yet that is the offer made by Mr. A. A. Monsch, president of the Nobo City Improvement company, of McDowell county, North Carolina, who, equipped with a plat of his incipient town and a handful of blank deeds, is visiting the people of Atlanta. McDowell county is in western North Carolina, the "Land of the sky and the Switzerland of America." These lots he sells at five dollars each, disposing of only alternate lots. The purchaser of his town gets all, of course, all the virtues of Paradise, Mr. Monsch has been quite successful here in Atlanta, many people purchasing simply because of the novelty of the offer.

Mr. Anselm Bluthenthal, of the firm of B. & B., left yesterday for a two months' visit to Germany. He is accompanied by his family, and will spend his vacation at his old home in Bavaria.

"I am, of course, sorry to leave Atlanta—everybody is who lives here," said Major E. B. Kirke, yesterday. "But I go back to Louisville, where I lived two years. You know, there isn't any better place to live in the country than Louisville. I can't tell just when I will leave, but it will probably be about the first of the month. Major Scully will reach here about that time."

A poem which attracted great attention during the recent visit of the B'Nai Brith was that of Mr. Solomon Mayer, of New Orleans. It is too long to admit of reproduction, but in the pamphlet form in which it was presented to the people the poem was widely read. It was one appropriate to the occasion, and is "dedicated to the friends and members of the fraternity in general and to the noble wife and family of the author in particular." The writer is a well known New Orleans journalist.

Freeman & Crankshaw sold yesterday a novelty for Atlanta—a watch which brought one thousand dollars. This is the second most valuable watch ever sold in this city, one other having brought $1,200. The one sold yesterday was made by Patek & Philippe & Co., of Geneva, and is split seconds, catching fifths of a second. The name of the gentleman who bought it is not known.

A True Tonic.

When you don't feel well and hardly know what ails you, give B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) a trial. It is a fine tonic.

T. O. Callahan, Charlotte, N. C., writes: "B. B. B. is a fine tonic, and has done me great good."

L. W. Thompson, Damascus, Ga., writes: "I believe B. B. B. is the best purifier made. It has greatly improved my general health."

An old gentleman writes: "B. B. B. gives me new life and new strength. If there is anything that will make an old man young, it is B. B. B."

P. A. Shepherd, Norfolk, Va., August 10th, 1888, writes: "I depend on B. B. B. for the preservation of my health. I have had it in my family now nearly two years, and in all that time have not had to have a doctor."

Thos. Faulk, Alapaha, Ga., writes: "I suffered terribly from dyspepsia. The use of B. B. B. has made me feel like a new man. I would not take a thousand dollars for the good it has done me."

W. M. Cheshire, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I had a long spell of typhoid fever, which at last seemed to settle in my right leg, which swelled up enormously. An ulcer also appeared which discharged a cup full of matter a day. I then gave B. B. B. a trial and it cured me." 1w

MR. W. W. EDWARDS, Wilson, N. C., says: Your Bradycrotine has in every instance cured me in a short while of the severest headaches.

THE RACKET STORE SENSATION.

Messrs S. A. Waldrop & Co., Answer Charges Against Them.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: In your issue of the 10th inst., appeared under the heading "Moving about the country" and "A Henry county merchant creates a sensation," one of the most remarkable and unjustifiable prodnections in defamation of the character of young gentlemen, who have gone into business among their fellow men with an honest endeavor for success, and a decent living, that ever appeared in a newspaper.

It is remarkable, because it seeks to prejudice a case that is pending in a court of the country, and insults the judge of that court by endeavoring to saddle upon him the plaintiff's shameful and false presentation and bid for public opinion.

In the first place the phenominal success of these young men in selling goods seems to be "a thorn in the flesh" to other parties, who cannot, or do not, sell their goods, wares, and merchandise at figures commensurately low.

In the next place, there is no truth in the article. It is pure fabrication out of the whole cloth.

It is true that Bryans Bros., a year or so ago did business at Locust Grove, where they failed. If they had been the only merchants who have failed, there might be some reason for suspicion, but the truth is that their creditors sought by all means to evolve some appearance of fraud, but ingloriously failed.

For many years merchants have been failing in business, and while Bryans Bros. said they had failed on account of unfortunate speculation, their creditors piled money and used means and methods to make it appear that they had shipped their goods and disposed of them in a fraudulent way, and made a ridiculous failure. Not content with their futile efforts they now seek to injure S. A. Waldrop & Co., a firm of young men, simply because, as must be inferred, R. L. Bryans happens to clerk for them. After their failure at Locust Grove, H. G. Bryans, one of the firm, went to Florida, and, not content there, went to Alabama, where he is attending to business for an uncle, and R. L. Bryans, the other member, began to read medicine, and went to Griffin for the purpose of prosecuting his studies. In order to enable him to pay his expenses, he consented to take a small hire for his services as clerk with these young men, who knew and appreciated his capacity. As to J. E. Williams, it is utterly false that he ever clerked for Bryans Bros. He did not clerk for them at Locust Grove, nor did he ever go to Alabama and clerk for them there. It is utterly and absolutely false that any of the goods of Bryans Bros. were ever shipped to him at Hampton or any other place from Alabama, or anywhere else.

Being a young man of limited means, and yet desiring to go into business, he accepted an offer from Mr. W. B. Costly, of Hampton, and bought his small stock of goods, amounting to $800 or $900, the same being discounted for cash, which he paid for at the time.

He accepted an offer while in Hampton to buy goods (and sell same) from a party (or firm) in New York, by means of which he was enabled to sell goods much more cheaply than they are usually sold by merchants all over this country. What he bought he paid for. He then formed a partnership with Mr. S. A. Waldrop, who had more money than he had, and went to Griffin where they began business under the name of S. A. Waldrop & Co., advertising as "The Racket Store." It is well to state here that these parties in New York who got goods so cheaply, are furnishing quite a number of stores over the country called "Racket Stores." Again, what goods they have they paid for, and their bills will show same as stated, and they are not indebted beyond their power to pay, "at a moment's warning, in fact neither of them owes a dollar to anybody. S. A. Waldrop may be a young country chap as stated, but while he is only about thirty years old he has a little money to begin business, and enough shrewd, common sense to take hold of a good thing, and it is unreasonable to suppose that for this reason he has not as much right to go into an honorable business as the balance of mankind.

We repeat and particularize that every charge in the slanderous article referred to is false and malicious and without a just cause.

1. J. E. Williams never clerked for Bryans Brothers, nor work in their store at Locust Grove, nor anywhere else.

2. J. E. Williams never did go to Alabama and open up a store for Bryans Brothers, for himself, nor for anybody else.

3. No goods of Bryans Brothers were ever shipped to J. E. Williams from Alabama to Hampton or Griffin.

4. In the case brought by the creditors of Bryans Brothers they utterly failed to show that any goods were ever shipped to a store of Bryans Brothers, nor were any other facts proved on the trial of said case to authorize the court to sustain their bill, and therefore the same was decided.

5. It is barely false that they have been attempting to shadow themselves. Having been in Griffin but a short while, and closely engaged in their business, and comparatively strangers in the town, they have not obtruded themselves upon the attention of their neighbors, but have honestly devoted themselves to the prosecution of their business enterprises.

6. Bryans Bros. have no interest whatever in the business of S. A. Waldrop & Co., the same being owned and conducted entirely and alone by themselves and their clerks. It is true that a bill has been filed by Bates, Kings-Levy & Co., and a temporary receiver has been appointed, but it has not been tried, as alleged, and the defendants have not been heard from, but they propose and hope to be able to prove to his honor, Judge Bogdon, on the hearing, such facts as will sustain themselves and show to the country that the slanderous charges contained and intimated in the article referred to are false from beginning to end. While writing this our attention is called to another article in Today's Constitution, entitled "A Worthy Set of Men," which is very unjust and appears to be an aggravation of persecution. We regret to see Colonel John L. Tye's name used in connection with the matter, and believe it is susceptible of full and proper explanation, which will be made at the proper time.

As to R. L. Bryans "simmering down" upon the approach of the writer of said slanderous article, we have only to say that those who know him are confident that he never did, and never will, "simmer" upon the approach of any one who would thus undertake to do him wrong and gross injustice.

This reply is requested to be published by THE DAILY CONSTITUTION by S. A. WALDROP & CO.,
And R. L. BRYANS.

Medical Monopoly Not Wanted.

Boston Daily Globe, February 7th, 1889.

"In the legislature of Massachusetts a bill is now pending whose object is to prohibit, under penalty of fine and imprisonment, the practice of "medicine, surgery or midwifery," by any other than the "regular" physicians. The attempt to pass such a bill has been made before, but it failed. It is a measure which ought not to pass, because it invades the personal liberty of the citizen; not the personal liberty of the 'irregular' physician only, but of the patient.

"Only yesterday Dr. Holt, in a paper read before the Massachusetts Medico-Legal society, an organization of 'regular' physicians, complained of the ignorance of his professional brethren, as shown in the notorious Robinson poisoning cases.

"This crime," said the doctor, "one of the greatest in our medical history, would never have been discovered but for the suspicions aroused outside the profession." And he called attention to the fact that in five of the poisoning cases the regular physician certified the cause of death to be pneumonia, typhoid fever, meningitis, bowel disease and Bright's disease, respectively.

"This shows how far the 'regular' physicians are from being infallible.

"It would seem to be more in accordance with justice and common sense were they to perfect their own knowledge before they appeal to law to prohibit others from healing.

"Not long ago a Globe reporter called upon ten "regular" physicians on the same day, and described his symptoms in exactly the same language to each. The ten physicians informed him that he was suffering from ten different diseases and gave him ten different prescriptions, each utterly inconsistent with the others.

"The implied claim that there is any certainty in "regular" medicine as at present practiced, is absurd. All medical practice, outside of the simplest complaints, is more or less guess-work and experiment, whether regular or irregular.

"When Garfield was shot five of the most famous regular physicians in the country spent three months probing for the bullet in the region of his left hip, and after his death it was found under his right shoulder blade." We have, but a word to add, which is that the above is the doctrine Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure, have fought for and promulgated for the past ten years. We know of scores of cases, and so does the reader, where doctors have treated the wrong disease. They say advanced kidney disease cannot be cured, yet thousands of cases have been cured with Warner's Safe Cure; yet so bigoted are the medical profession that the majority of them will not use it, although they know that it could thereby save many valuable lives, because, forsooth, it is against their fossilized code. Out upon such bigotry. Every method to prolong life should be utilized, and the regular medical profession should be the first to welcome it instead of encompassing themselves in the self-conceit and bigotry, doctoring symptoms instead of disease, and sending their patients to the cemetery, poisoned with drugs, but on the death certificate that they died from typhoid fever, meningitis, pneumonia, or some other equally foreign cause.
